

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Sons of the American Revolution

 HE AMERICAN REVOLUTION conferred benefits upon the descendants of those who won our national independence, exacted duties from them and gave to them a distinction, the recognition of which led to the formation of the SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION. Of these three—the benefits, the duties and the distinction—the first mentioned least exclusively belong to the immediate descendants of the founders of the Republic. They have been so universal in their operation and so far-reaching in their influence that no one country could, if it would, monopolize them. So great has been their magnitude that the mind is unable fully to grasp them, and the historian and student are overwhelmed in the contemplation of them. The American Revolution was a prodigious event in human annals. It seems like the burning focus of all preceding and the radiant point of all succeeding history. It marked the beginning of a new period in higher civilization as definitely as the star which led the wise men on the plains of Judea gave the luminous point from which the Christian era is measured. Its fertilizing and quickening power is felt to-day by every nation of the earth, in its higher civilization, its political advancement, and its material progress already achieved, and in its hopes for and faith in greater fruits in the future. The progress in the direction of popular government alone has been marvelous during the century since the achievement of American autonomy. The Republic of Switzerland secured her first Constitution free from foreign influence some sixty years after the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, which she studied. France, our own ally, now has a stable popular form of government. England closely approximates a democracy. Ireland, ethnologically a distinct nation, though politically a part of the United Kingdom, is apparently on the threshold of self-government. And in a greater or lesser degree, every other civilized nation of the Old World feels the influence of the American Revolution in a more liberal constitutional government and other modifications of political life. In the New World, the operation of the distinctively American idea embodied in the Monroe Doctrine extends the principle of self-government to every country of the Western Hemisphere except Canada.

With the promotion of popular government, which in its essence is a government for the happiness of the people, there has been a long stride away from the perpetual militant idea of the old civilization toward the more humane and fraternal idea of the new, that peace is the rightful normal condition of the people. The principles which were embodied in the covenant known as the Armed Neutrality, which were established during the war of American Independence, restricting the field of hostilities to the nations actually at war, in themselves constituted one of the most radical and beneficent changes in the history of human warfare ; and, followed, as might have been expected, by the still more advanced principle of international arbitration between possible belligerents, established between ourselves and the mother country within the last quarter of a century through the efforts of American statesmen, has done more than any one thing to circumscribe the area of war, practically promote peace and fraternity among the nations of the earth, and recognize the interests of peace as paramount to those of war.

In these and other directions it is impossible to estimate the powerful inspiration which the accomplished fact of the American Revolution has been to men of lofty aims, and the strong, sustaining moral support it has given to every great effort at popular advancement in the world during the past century. The contemplation of these things by any intelligent man, in any part of the world, is enough to stir up the profoundest sense of gratitude toward those stern and hardy men who, fortified with a righteous purpose and strengthened with an unwavering faith, struggled in the midst of indescribable hardships and offered the greatest sacrifices which are in human power to give, in order to establish their inalienable rights. And if this be so, how much deeper a sense of obligation ought the American citizen in general and the descendant of Revolutionary ancestry in particular to feel when he considers the inestimable special blessings which he enjoys within his own national boundaries in consequence of these sacrifices and sufferings of the fathers of the nation.

In the continuity of the race, every generation is inseparably connected with that which preceded it and that which will follow it. From the one it receives all that the genius of the past has accumulated ; to the other it gives this with whatever additions it may be able to make. If this were not so, and if every generation had to begin afresh to form its

on descendants of Revolution-

own conditions, human history could gather no momentum and civilization would be no farther advanced to-day than it was at the creation of the world. Every man, therefore, owes a duty to the past that what he has received from it shall at least not deteriorate in his hands ; he owes it to his contemporaries that he shall do his share toward preserving it ; he owes it to the future that his successors shall receive from him as good a set of circumstances as he himself came into at birth. The debt to the past may be partly paid, but only partly, by cherishing the memories of our ancestors who founded the Republic. But no adequate return to a dead generation can ever be made by the living. By far the greater portion of the obligation can be discharged by making a definite effort to protect from harm what they have given to us and by giving it in as good if not better condition to the succeeding generation.

No set of men are better qualified by nature to be the guardians of this treasure than those who directly inherit the blood of the founders of the Republic. None will do it with such zeal, none with such sympathy, none with such intelligent comprehension, none with such equipment of all the faculties that come by heredity from the Revolutionary fathers. The laws of heredity, to which the persistence of individual and national characteristics is due, make the actual descendants of the fathers of the Republic the best interpreters of their ideas and the best exponents of their principles. Oliver Wendell Holmes uttered a profound truth when, in response to an inquiry as to when the education of a child should begin, he replied, "One hundred years before it is born." The education of the present generation of Americans began a century ago, and the education of a generation to be born a century hence is beginning to-day. It is a duty, not only to the present but to the future, that the ideas of the founders be protected from perversion and misconception. One cannot have followed public events of late years without realizing the serious need of the exercise of a restraining, corrective, and educating influence, in order to preserve some of the fundamental ideas of the nation. One may cite as a single illustration the unfortunate misconception of the word "independence" by those unfamiliar with our national history and the genius of the American people. In their minds, America too often stands for independence of everything—law, order, and moral and physical restraint of every kind. They conceive the Revolutionary fathers more or less in the light of successful anarchists, who had some new notions of their own, and who, in order to carry them out, defied and overthrew existing authority. That misconception, in a much diluted form, is embodied in the common expression "Young America" when applied in good natured tolerance to the members of the rising generation who are inclined to over-ride parental or civil authority.

This is as unfortunate as it is unjust. The war of the Revolution was not inaugurated for the purpose of acquiring newly conceived and unaccustomed privileges. Independence, as embodied in the great Declaration, meant simply national or political independence of a despot who had deprived the colonists of immemorial rights; and even as such, was their slow and reluctant conclusion. The colonists endured years of oppression without thinking of separation. Affection for the mother country, to which they were bound by natural ties and traditions, made them very reluctant to sever themselves from her. Even after the ruler of a common race had set brother to kill brother, and blood flowed at Concord and Lexington, the thought of independence was not generally entertained. Washington assumed command of the American forces under a flag which bore not only the thirteen stripes of the colonies but also the cross of St. George, signifying loyalty to the crown. Ticonderoga was captured, Canada invaded, Bunker Hill fought, Montreal captured, Quebec assaulted, the British driven from Boston, and several other battles fought, before it was demonstrated that reconciliation was out of the range of possibility and the necessity of independence was driven in upon the minds of the colonists with such force as to be embodied in a formal Declaration. There were a few men like Samuel Adams, whose prophetic vision saw that independence was the inevitable logic of events to come, and yet even he was foremost in proceeding in conformity with the established laws of the existing government. In fact, the strictness with which the colonists kept within the law was so extraordinary, that abroad it was misconstrued as timidity. It was only after the Lord had hardened the heart of Pharaoh so that he would not yield to the prayers of the people, that they were constrained to assert their independence; and that independence was not independence of law, but of lawlessness. It was not the demanding of unheard of privileges and the establishment of newly devised principles, but the re-assertion and re-establishment of hereditary rights older than Magna Charta, modified by, and adapted to, the changes of time and circumstance. It should never be allowed to be forgotten that the animating spirit of the American people was then, and is to-day, the spirit of self-control and amenity to the law.

The Distinction
of Revolutionary Descent.

Time and history have placed the seal of approbation on the issue of the war of the American Revolution. The American colonists seem to have been marked by Destiny to accomplish a wonderful work in the world's history. The three primordial forces—race, surroundings and epoch—to which Taine, in another connection, alludes as the factors of all social and economic conditions, gave to them alone, of all the peoples of the earth, the power to accomplish the great results which they achieved. No other race, or portion of race, at that time had at once the hereditary traits, the peculiar environment of time and circumstance, and the stage of historical momentum that equipped the American colonists for their work. And it was only when their genius asserted itself, threw off its encumbrances and entered upon a free exercise, that this country bounded forward in its course of phenomenal prosperity, and grew vastly more in one century than in all the three previous centuries which had elapsed since the discovery of America. That this wonderful progress could not have occurred under continued British dominion may reasonably be inferred, if from no other premises, from the fact that it did not occur before Independence was secured and has not been paralleled by any nation under similar conditions since.

It is certainly a great distinction to be descended from that chosen race of men whose destiny it was to work that great revolution in the world's history and to give that wonderful impetus to the spread and advancement of civilization.

The essentially peaceful desire of the Revolutionary fathers, and the reluctance with which they joined the hostilities forced upon them, are illustrated in the reaction which followed the conclusion of the war. Peace secured, the citizens of the new Republic turned back to the plows which they had deserted in the furrows and devoted their attention so assiduously to domestic affairs that the animosities engendered by the war passed away practically with the generation that fought it, being revived only temporarily by the war of 1812. Enterprise, bounding forward with the strides of a giant, absorbed the thoughts of the people, and the events of succeeding years conspired to erase the memories of 1776. After the comparatively insignificant war with Mexico in 1848 came the great and lamentable civil conflict of 1861-65, the fresh memories of which almost obliterated those of the War of Independence. The Fourth of July became but a feeble reminder of the glorious achievements of the previous century and the deeds of the founders of the nation were rapidly

The following table shows the results of the regression analysis for the dependent variable Perceived Organizational Support. The independent variables are Organizational Commitment, Organizational Identification, and Organizational Attraction. The table includes the regression coefficients, standard errors, t-statistics, and p-values for each variable.

Variable	Regression Coefficient	Standard Error	t-Statistic	p-Value
Organizational Commitment	0.25	0.05	5.00	0.000
Organizational Identification	0.18	0.04	4.50	0.000
Organizational Attraction	0.12	0.03	4.00	0.000
Constant	1.50	0.10	15.00	0.000

The results indicate that all three independent variables (Organizational Commitment, Organizational Identification, and Organizational Attraction) have a significant positive effect on Perceived Organizational Support. The regression coefficients are 0.25, 0.18, and 0.12, respectively, with t-statistics of 5.00, 4.50, and 4.00, and p-values of 0.000 for each variable. The constant term is 1.50 with a standard error of 0.10 and a t-statistic of 15.00 (p = 0.000).

Organization of
State Society.

Nearly a year was allowed to elapse after the organization of the NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION before the NEW YORK STATE SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION was formed, in order to give the then existing society of revolutionary descendants in this State an opportunity to join the National Society ; but as no common ground of union could be reached, and as the NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION was in the anomalous condition of having no branch in this State, it authorized Mr. George Creighton Webb of New York City to take steps for the formation of a Society in this State. He performed the congenial task with zeal, and on February 11, 1890, the NEW YORK STATE SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION was organized at the office of Dr. William Seward Webb of New York City, who was then President General of the National Society, and whose practical interest, generous assistance and earnest personal efforts have greatly promoted the growth of the Society at large. The officers of the Society then elected and their successors are given on the following pages.

The practical
Society.

This Society is a practical and not a merely sentimental and ornamental organization. In its genealogical work alone it is of inestimable value. Men have been stimulated to investigate their ancestry and to rescue unrecorded facts from the generation now passing away which would have been lost forever if they had waited a few years longer. Throughout the country the Society is saving from destruction historical landmarks, such as the headquarters of Jonathan Trumbull in Connecticut, which has been obtained for a museum. It is marking historical spots and directly or indirectly securing the erection of memorials of the Revolutionary heroes, such as the great Bennington monument near that famous battle-field, the statue of Gen. John Stark in New Hampshire, and the monument to be erected in Baltimore to Maryland's heroes of the Revolution. It has obtained from Congress a law providing for the collection and indexing of the records of service in the Revolution now in Washington. It has not only done much to restore the patriotic observance of Washington's Birthday and the Fourth of July, but has established the annual observance of June 14 as Flag Day, in commemoration of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes and the National Standard. It has developed a general public interest in American history. It has led to the formation of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution, and in countless other ways is doing a great patriotic work for the country.

The officers of the New York State Society since its organization are given on the following pages.

Constitution

ARTICLE I.

NAME.

The name of this Society shall be "The New York State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution."

ARTICLE II.

NATIONAL SOCIETY.

This Society shall be a part of the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. It recognizes all State Societies of the Sons of the American Revolution as co-equal, and their members as their compatriots, entitled to receive from this Society such information, assistance and fraternal consideration as may best promote the objects of the Society.

ARTICLE III.

OBJECTS.

The objects of this Society shall be to perpetuate the memory of the men who, by their services or sacrifices during the War of the American Revolution, achieved the Independence of the American people ; to unite and promote fellowship among their descendants ; to inspire them and the community at large with a more profound reverence for the principles of the government founded by our forefathers ; to encourage historical research in relation to the American Revolution ; to acquire and preserve the records of the individual services of the patriots of the war, as well as documents, relics and landmarks ; to mark the scenes of the Revolution by appropriate memorials ; to celebrate the anniversaries of the prominent events of the War ; to foster true patriotism ; to maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom ; and to carry out the purposes expressed in the Preamble to the Constitution of our Country and the injunctions of Washington in his farewell address to the American people.

ARTICLE IV.

MEMBERSHIP.*

Any man is eligible for membership who is twenty-one years of age, and who is lineally descended from an ancestor, who, with unfailing loyalty, rendered material aid to the cause of Independence as a soldier, sailor, civil officer, or recognized patriot ; provided the applicant be acceptable to the Society.

Any man is eligible for honorary membership subject to the limitations as to age and descent established in the case of active members.

ARTICLE V.

OFFICERS.

The officers of this Society shall be a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, Registrar, Historian, Chaplain, and a Board of Managers, sixteen in number, including the officers before named. The Officers and Delegates to the National Congress shall be elected by a majority of the members present at the annual meeting and hold office for one year, or until their successors are duly elected. An Assistant Secretary and Assistant Registrar may be appointed by the Board of Managers, if, at any time, the business of the Society shall require it.

ARTICLE VI.

FEES AND DUES.

The initiation fee shall be five dollars, the annual dues three dollars, and the certificate of membership one dollar ; but members admitted by transfer from another State Society of Sons of the American Revolution, to which they have paid their initiation fee, shall be exempt from paying another initiation fee. The payment at one time of fifty dollars shall constitute a life membership, with exemption from payment of annual dues thereafter. The annual dues shall be payable in advance on the 1st of April in each year. Members admitted during the month of April shall pay annual dues for the full year; but members admitted after the 30th of April shall make first payment only at the rate of 25 cents for every month and fraction of month remaining before the 1st of April next following.

*The section of the National Constitution bearing on this subject reads as follows: "Art. III, Section 1. Any man shall be eligible to Membership in this Society, who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over, and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor, who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to and rendered actual service in the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minute man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress or of any one of the several Colonies or States ; or as a Signer of the Declaration of Independence ; or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence ; or as a member of any Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress or Legislature ; or as a civil officer, either of one of the Colonies or States or of the national government ; or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain."

ARTICLE VII.

MEETINGS.

The Annual Meeting shall be held on the 22d of February, or as near that date as may be convenient, at a time and place to be determined by the Board of Managers, for the election of Officers and Delegates, and the transaction of business; and a special meeting shall be called by the President or Board of Managers at any time when requested to do so in writing by ten members, specifying the object of such meeting. Fifteen members shall constitute a quorum. General business may be transacted at any special meeting.

ARTICLE VIII.

LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS.

Upon the petition of fifteen or more members residing in the same town or county, the Board of Managers may authorize the formation of a local organization to be known as the "_____ Chapter of the New York State Society of Sons of the American Revolution." Such Chapter may enact such by-laws and regulations as do not conflict with the Constitutions or By-Laws of the National Society or New York State Society of Sons of the American Revolution. No person shall be admitted to such Chapter who is not a member of the New York State Society of Sons of the American Revolution, and all members of this Society residing within the territory of such Chapter shall be eligible to membership therein. Any member who shall be suspended, expelled, or in any way lose membership in the State Society, shall thereupon cease to be a member of such Chapter.

ARTICLE IX.

SEAL.

The seal of this Society shall be the same as that of the National Society, with the exception that it shall bear the legend "New York State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, organized Feb. 11, 1890," in place of the legend of the National Society.

ARTICLE X.

INSIGNIA.

The insignia shall be the same as that of the National Society, namely :
A silver cross of four arms and eight points, same size as the Chevalier's Cross of the Legion of Honor of France ; arms enameled white ; in the center, a

The large cross with gold eagle costs $25.00. The large cross with silver eagle costs $15.00. The small cross with gold eagle costs $10.00. To obtain the badge, the member will write to the State Registrar, specifying the kind desired, and he will obtain for and send to the member the necessary permit. The member will then send this permit to Tiffany & Co., accompanied by his check, made payable to them, and will receive the badge directly from the jewelers.

The blue and white rosettes (or buttons) of the Society may be obtained from the State Registrar, and cost 25 cents apiece.

application to the Registrar who shall investigate it, and upon the applicant's compliance with the requirements of the Society, the Registrar shall report it to the Board of Managers with his signature. Upon its acceptance by the Board of Managers and approval by the Registrar General, the Secretary shall send notification of his election to the applicant, who shall become a member upon the payment of his initiation fee and dues to the 1st of April following.

SECTION II.

PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT.

The President, or in his absence the Vice President, shall preside at all meetings of the Society and Board of Managers and have a casting vote. He shall exercise the usual functions of presiding officer, and shall enforce a strict observance of the Constitution and By-laws of this Society.

SECTION III.

SECRETARY.

The Secretary shall conduct the general correspondence and keep a fair and accurate record of all the proceedings of the Society ; have charge of the records, seal, certificate of incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Society ; give notice to the several officers of all votes or proceedings affecting their duties ; notify members of their election ; give due notice to members of all meetings of the Society ; and perform such other duties as may be imposed upon him by the Board of Managers. He shall also, together with the President, certify all acts of the Society.

SECTION IV.

TREASURER.

The Treasurer shall keep the accounts of the Society ; shall issue bills of indebtedness to members ; shall collect all moneys of the Society and deposit the same in some bank approved by the Board of Managers, in the name of the New York State Society of the Sons of the American Revolution ; and he shall disburse the same only on checks drawn for accounts which have been duly approved by the Board of Managers, or a committee appointed thereby for such purpose. He shall give his receipt for moneys received, and shall keep a true account of his financial transactions and make report of the same at the annual meeting of the Society.

SECTION V.

REGISTRAR.

The Registrar shall, upon receipt of an application for membership, investigate the proofs of eligibility, and if they be not satisfactory, require further proofs from the applicant. Upon the verification of the applicant's claim to eligibility, the Registrar shall affix his signature and transmit the application to the Board of Managers for acceptance. The registrar shall file and keep record of all proof upon which membership shall have been granted; shall be custodian of all historical or genealogical papers, manuscript or printed, of which the Society may become possessed, and which shall be open to inspection by any member of the Society, and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned to him by the Society or Board of Managers.

SECTION VI.

HISTORIAN.

The Historian shall keep a record of all the historical and commemorative celebrations of the Society, prepare and edit the same for publication under direction of the Board of Managers, and shall act as Necrologist for the Society. He shall also from time to time publish for distribution among the members such historical papers and documents as may be presented to or secured by the Society.

SECTION VII.

CHAPLAIN.

The Chaplain shall perform the religious offices of the Society.

SECTION VIII.

BOARD OF MANAGERS.

The Board of Managers in addition to the powers and duties elsewhere enumerated in these By-laws, shall judge of the qualifications of applicants for membership, and have power to admit candidates complying with the requirements of the Society; may call special meetings of the Society; may fill vacancies in office until the next meeting of the Society; may arrange for public celebrations and social meetings; and shall generally superintend and manage the affairs of the Society, subject at all times to any specific vote of the Society. If, by reason of absence, disability or other cause, an officer shall not properly perform the duties of his office, the Board of Managers shall appoint a member to such office pro tempore.

Five members of the Board shall constitute a quorum. During the Summer months the powers and duties of the Board may be devolved upon an executive committee of three of its members appointed for that purpose.

SECTION IX.

RESIGNATION AND EXPULSION.

Any member who is in good standing in the Society, and is under no indebtedness thereto, shall be allowed voluntarily to withdraw from membership.

The Board of Managers shall have power to drop from the rolls any member who shall remain in arrears for dues one year after notice has been given him, or any member who shall be found to have obtained membership on insufficient data, after due opportunity has been afforded him to supply satisfactory evidence. In either of the foregoing cases, the member may be restored to the rolls upon the payment of arrears and dues to date, or the furnishing of the required evidence of eligibility, as the case may be.

Upon the signed complaint of ten members, the Board of Managers shall have power to drop from the rolls or expel any member who shall wilfully and persistently transgress the regulations of the Society, or who, by conduct unbecoming a gentleman and man of honor, shall have come into disrepute in the community in general; provided, that such member shall have received at least two weeks' notice of the hearing on the complaint and shall have had reasonable opportunity to be heard in person. Any member thus expelled or dropped from the rolls shall have the privilege of appeal to the Society, and may be restored either by the unanimous vote of the Board of Managers or a majority vote of the Society.

A majority vote of all the members of the Board of Managers shall be required to drop or expel a member from the Society as herein provided.

SECTION X.

AMENDMENTS.

Amendments to these By-laws may be proposed at any meeting of the Society, but shall not be acted upon until a subsequent meeting of which due notice shall have been given.

Magna Charta

THE GREAT CHARTER granted by King John of England, June 15, A.D., 1215, to the Barons, is considered the corner stone of English liberties. If one examine it for eloquently rounded periods and high sounding phrases, he will be disappointed. Its importance lies chiefly in the fact that it restored to the people hereditary rights which had been granted years before by Edward the Confessor and Henry I, and of which they had been deprived ; that it was not the voluntary gift of a benign monarch, but was exacted from a despot by an armed force ; and that by its provisions it established the supremacy of the law of the land over the will of the monarch. One of the first effective steps toward the acquisition of this Charter occurred in 1214 when, after King John had repeatedly broken his promises to restore to the Barons their ancient rights, Archbishop Langton convened a general assembly of peers and ecclesiastics at St. Paul's and disclosed to them "a newly discovered charter of King Henry I, the which, if ye are willing to support, your long lost liberties may be restored in all their original purity of character." The Barons then solemnly swore on the altar to regain those rights. This they accompublished on June 15, 1215, while encamped over against the King at Runnimeade. The Charter was written in Latin, of which fac-simile specimens, are herewith given, being the beginning, the famous section (XXXIX) establishing trial by jury of peers, and the attestation.

MAGNA CHARTA.

JOHNN, by the Grace of God King of England, Lord of Ireland, Duke of Normandy and Aquitaine, and Earl of Anjou, to his Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Earls, Barons, Justiciaries, Foresters, Sheriffs, Governors, Officers, and to all Bailiffs, and his faithful Subjects, Greeting :

Know ye, that We, in the presence of God, and for the salvation of our own soul, and of the souls of all our ancestors, and of our heirs, to the honour of God and the exaltation of the Holy Church and amendment of our Kingdom, by the council of our venerable fathers, Stephen Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of all England, and Cardinal of the Holy Roman Church, Henry Archbishop of Dublin, William of London, Peter of Winchester, Joceline of Bath and Glastonbury, Hugh of Lincoln, Walter of Worcester, William of Coventry, and Benedict of Rochester, Bishops; Master Pandulph our lord the Pope's Subdeacon and familiar, Brother Almeric, Master of the Knights Templars in England, and of these noble persons, William Mareschal Earl of Pembroke, William Earl of Salisbury, William Earl of Warren, William Earl of Arundel, Allan de Galloway Constable of Scotland, Warin Fitz-Gerald, Hubert de Burgh Seneschal of Poitou, Peter Fitz-Herbert, Hugh de Nevil, Matthew Fitz-Herbert, Thomas Basset, Alan Basset, Philip de Albiniac, Robert de Roppel, John Mareschal, John Fitz-Hugh, and others our liegemen; have in the first place granted to God, and by this our present Charter have confirmed, for us and our heirs forever :

I. That the English Church shall be free, and shall have her whole rights and her liberties inviolable; and we will this to be observed in such a manner that it may appear from thence, that the freedom of elections, which was reputed most requisite to the English Church, which we granted and by our Charter confirmed, and obtained the Confirmation of the same from our Lord Pope Innocent III, before the rupture between us and our Barons, was of our own free will: which Charter we shall observe, and we will it to be observed with good faith, by our heirs forever.

II. We have also granted to all the Freemen of our Kingdom, for us and our heirs forever, all the underwritten Liberties, to be enjoyed and held by them and by their heirs, from us and from our heirs. If any of our Earls or Barons, or others who hold of us in chief by military service shall die, and at his death his heir shall be of full age, and shall owe a relief, he shall have his inheritance by the ancient relief; that is to say, the heir or heirs of an Earl, a whole Earl's Barony for 100 pounds: the heir or heirs of a Baron for a whole Barony, by 100 pounds; the heir or heirs of a Knight, for a whole Knight's fee, by 100 shillings at most: and he who owes less, shall give less, according to the ancient custom of fees.

III. But if the heir of any such be under age, and in wardship, when he comes to age he shall have his inheritance without relief (relevio) and without fine.

IV. The warden of the land of such heir who shall be under age, shall not take from the lands of the heir any but reasonable issues, and reasonable customs, and reasonable services, and that without the destruction and waste of the men or goods; and if we commit the custody of any such lands to a Sheriff, or any other person who is bound to us for the issues of them, and he shall make destruction or waste upon the ward-lands, we will recover damages from him and the lands shall be committed to two lawful and discreet men of that fee, who shall answer for the issues to us, or to him to whom we have assigned them. And if we shall give or sell to anyone the custody of any such lands, and he shall make destruction or waste upon them, he shall lose the custody and it shall be committed to two lawful and discreet men of that fee, who shall answer to us in like manner as it is said before.

V. But the Warden, as long as he hath the custody of the lands, shall keep up and maintain the houses, parks, warrens, ponds, mills, and other things belonging to them, out of their issues.

VI. Heirs shall be married without disparagement, so that before the marriage be contracted, it shall be notified to the relations of the heir by consanguinity.

VII. A widow, after the death of her husband, shall immediately and without difficulty, have her marriage (maritagium) and her inheritance, nor shall she give anything for her dower, or for her marriage, or for her inheritance, which her husband and she held at the day of his death: and she may remain in her husband's house forty days after his death, within which time her dower shall be assigned.

VIII. No widow shall be distrained to marry herself, while she is willing to live without a husband; but yet she shall give security that she shall not marry herself without our consent if she hold of us, or without the consent of the lord of whom she does hold, if she hold of another.

IX. Neither we nor our Bailiffs will seize any land or rent for any debt, while the chattels of the debtor are sufficient for the payment of the debt ; nor shall the sureties of the debtor be distrained, while the principal debtor is able to pay the debt ; and if the principal debtor fail in the payment of the debt, not having wherewith to discharge it, the sureties shall answer for the debt ; and if they be willing they shall have the lands and rents of the debtor, until satisfaction be made to them for the debt which they had before paid for him, unless the principal debtor can show himself acquitted thereof against the said sureties.

X. If any one hath borrowed anything from the Jews, more or less, and die before that debt be paid, the debt shall pay no interest so long as the heir shall be under age, of whomsoever he may hold ; and if the debt shall fall into our hands, we will not take anything except the chattel contained in the bond.

XI. If any one shall die indebted to the Jews, his wife shall have her dower and shall pay nothing of that debt ; and if children of the deceased shall remain who are under age, necessities shall be provided for them, according to the tenement which belonged to the deceased : and out of the residue the debt shall be paid, saving the rights of the lords (of whom the lands are held). In like manner let it be with debts owing to others than Jews.

XII. No scutage nor aid shall be imposed in our Kingdom, unless by the Common Council of our Kingdom, excepting to redeem our person, to make our eldest son a Knight, and once to marry our eldest daughter, and not for these unless a reasonable aid shall be demanded.

XIII. In like manner let it be concerning the aids of the City of London. And the City of London should have all its ancient liberties and its free customs, as well by land as by water. Furthermore, we will and grant that all other Cities, and Burghs, and Towns, and Ports, should have all their liberties and free customs.

XIV. And also to have the Common Council of the Kingdom, to assess and aid, otherwise than in the three cases aforesaid : and for the assessing of scutages we will cause to be summoned the Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Earls, and Great Barons, individually, by our letters. And besides, we will cause to be summoned in general by our Sheriffs and Bailiffs, all those who hold of us in chief, at a certain day, that is to say, at a distance of 40 days (before their meeting) at the least, and to a certain place ; and in all the letters of summons, we will express the cause of the summons ; and the summons being thus made the business shall proceed on the day appointed according to the council of those who shall be present, although all who have been summoned have not come.

XV. We will not give leave to any one, for the future, to take an aid of his own free-men, except for redeeming his own body, and for making his eldest son a Knight, and for marrying once his eldest daughter ; and not that unless it be a reasonable aid.

XVI. None shall be distrained to do more service for a Knight's-fee, nor for any other free tenement, than what is due from thence.

XVII. Common pleas shall not follow our court, but shall be held in any certain place.

XVIII. Trials upon the writs of Novel Disseisin, of Mort d'Ancestre (death of the ancestor) and Darrien Presentment (last presentation) shall not be taken but in their proper counties, and in this manner: We, or our Chief Justiciary, if we are out of the Kingdon, will send two Justiciaries into each county, four times in the year, who with four Knights of each county, chosen by the county, shall hold the aforesaid assize, within the county on the day and at the place appointed.

XIX. And if the aforesaid assize cannot be taken on the day of the county court, let as many Knights and Freeholders of those who were present at the county court, remain behind, as shall be sufficient to do justice, according to the great or less importance of the business.

XX. A free-man shall not be amerced for a small offence, but only according to the degree of the offence; and for a great delinquency according to the magnitude of the delinquency, saving his contenment; a Merchant shall be amerced in the same manner, saving his merchandise, and a villain shall be amerced after the same manner saving to him his Wainage, if he shall fall into our mercy; and none of the aforesaid amerciaments shall be assessed but by the oath of honest men of the vicinage.

XXI. Earls and Barons shall not be amerced but by their Peers, and that only according to the degree of their delinquency.

XXII. No clerk shall be amerced for his lay-tenement, but according to the manner of the others as aforesaid, and not according to the quantity of his ecclesiastical benefice.

XXIII. Neither a town nor any person shall be distrained to build bridges or entrenchments excepting those which anciently and of right are bound to do it.

XXIV. No Sheriff, Constable, Coroners, nor others of our Bailiffs, shall hold pleas of our crown.

XXV. All Counties, and Hundreds, Frethings and Wapontakes shall be at the ancient rent, without any increase, excepting in our Demesne-manors.

XXVI. If any one holding of us a lay-fee dies, and the Sheriff or our Bailiff shall show our letters-patent of summons concerning the debt which the defunct owed to us, it shall be lawful for the Sheriff or our Bailiff to attach and register the chattels of the defunct found on that lay-fee, to the amount of that debt, by the view of lawful men, so that nothing shall be removed from thence until our debt be paid to us; and the rest shall be left to the executors to fulfil the will of the defunct; and if nothing be owing to us by him, all the chattels shall fall to the defunct, saving to his wife and children their reasonable shares.

XXVII. If any free man shall die intestate, his chattels shall be distributed by the hands of his nearest relations and friends, by the view of the Church, saving to everyone the debts which the defunct owed.

XXVIII. No Constable or other Bailiff of ours shall take the corn or other goods of anyone without instantly paying money for them, unless he can obtain respite from the free will of the seller.

XXIX. No Constable (Governor of a Castle) shall distrain any Knight to give money for castle-guard, if he be willing to perform it in his own person or by another able man, if he cannot perform it himself, for a reasonable cause ; and if we have carried him or sent him into the army, he shall be excused from castle-guard, according to the time that he shall be in our army by our command.

XXX. No Sheriff nor Bailiff of ours, nor any other person, shall take the horses or carts of any free-man, for the purpose of carriage, without the consent of the said free-man.

XXXI. Neither we nor our Bailiffs will take another man's wood, for our castles or other uses, unless by the consent of him to whom the wood belongs.

XXXII. We will not retain the lands of those who have been convicted of felony, excepting for one year and one day, and then they shall be given up to the lord of the fee.

XXXIII. All kydells (weirs) for the future shall be quite removed out of the Thames, and the Medway, and through all England, excepting on the seacoast.

XXXIV. The writ which is called "Præcipe" for the future shall not be granted to anyone of any tenement, by which a free-man may lose his court.

XXXV. There shall be one measure of wine throughout all of our kingdom, and one measure of ale, and one measure of corn, namely the quarter of London ; and one breadth of dyed cloth, and of russets, and of halberjects, namely, two ells within the lists. Also it shall be the same with weights as with measures.

XXXVI. Nothing shall be given or taken for the future for the Writ of Inquisition of life or limb ; but it shall be given without charge, and not denied.

XXXVII. If any hold of us by Fee-Farm, or Socage, or Burgage, and hold land of another by military service, we will not have the custody of the heir, nor of his lands, which are of the fee of another, on account of that Fee-Farm, Socage or Burgage ; nor will we have the custody of the Fee-Farm, Socage or Burgage, unless the Fee Farm owe Military Service. We will not have the custody of the heir, nor of the lands of anyone, which he holds of another by Military Service, on account of any Petty Sergeantry which he holds of us by the service of giving us daggers, or arrows, or the like.

XXXVIII. No Bailiff for the future shall put any man to his law upon his own simple affirmation, without credible witnesses produced for that purpose.

XXXIX. No freeman shall be seized, or imprisoned, or dispossessed, or outlawed, or in any way destroyed, nor will we condemn him, nor will we commit him to prison, excepting by the legal judgment of his peers, or by the laws of the land.

XL. To none will we sell, to none will we deny, to none will we delay right or justice.

XLI. All merchants shall have safety and security in coming into England, and going out of England, and in staying and in traveling through England, as well by land as by water, to buy and sell, without any unjust exactions, according to ancient and right customs, excepting in the time of war and if they be of a country at war against us ; and if such are found in our land in the beginning of a war, they shall be apprehended without injury of their body or their goods, until it be known to us, or to our Chief Justiciary, how the merchants of our country are treated who are found in the country at war against us; and if ours be in safety there, the others shall be in safety in our land.

XLII. It shall be lawful to any person, for the future, to go out of our kingdom, and to return safely and securely, by land or by water, saving his allegiance to us, unless it be in time of war, for some short space, for the common good of the kingdom; excepting prisoners, and outlaws, according to the laws of the land and of the people of the nation at war against us, and merchants who shall be treated as it is said above.

XLIII. If any hold of any escheat, as of the Honour of Wallingford, Nottingham, Boulogne, Lancaster, or of other escheats, which are in our hand, and are Baronies, and shall die, his heir shall not give any other relief nor do any other service to us, than he should have done to the Baron, if that Barony had been in the hands of the Baron; and we will hold it in the same manner that the Baron held it.

XLIV. Men who dwell without the Forest, shall not come, for the future, before our Justiciaries of the Forest on a common summons, unless they be parties in a plea, or sureties for some person or persons who are attached for the Forest.

XLV. We will not make Justiciaries, Constables, Sheriffs or Bailiffs, excepting of such as know the laws of the land, and are well disposed to observe them.

XLVI. All Barons who have founded Abbies which they hold by Charters from the Kings of England, or by ancient tenure, shall have the custody of them when they become vacant, as they ought to have.

XLVII. All Forests which have been made in our time shall be immediately disforested; and it shall be so done with waterbanks which have been taken or fenced in by us during our reign.

XLVIII. All evil customs of Forests and Warrens, and of Foresters and Warreners, Sheriffs and their officers, Waterbanks and their keepers, shall immediately be inquired into by twelve Knights of the same county, upon oath, who shall be elected by good men of the same county; and within 40 days after the inquisition is made, they shall be altogether destroyed by them, never to be restored; provided that this be notified to us before it be done, or to our Justiciary, if we be not in England.

XLIX. We will immediately restore all hostages and charters, which have been delivered to us by the English, in security of the peace and of their faithful service.

L. We will remove from their bailiwicks the relations of Gerard de Athyes, so that for the future, they shall have no bailiwick in England; Engelard de Cygony, Andrew, Peter and Gyone de Chancell, Gyone de Cygony, Geoffrey de Martin, and his brothers Philip, Mark, and his brothers, and Geoffrey his nephew, and all their followers.

LI. And immediately after the conclusion of the peace, we will remove out of the Kingdom all foreign Knights, cross-bowmen, and stipendiary soldiers, who have come with horses and arms to the molestation of the Kingdom.

LII. If any have been disseized or dispossessed by us, without a legal verdict of their peers, of their lands, castles, liberties, or rights, we will immediately restore these things to them; and if any dispute shall arise on this head, then it shall be determined by the verdict of the 25 Barons, of whom mention is made below, for the security of the peace. Concerning all those things of which any one hath been disseized or dispossessed, without the legal verdict of his peers, King Henry, our father, or King Richard, our brother, which we have in our hand, or others hold with our warrants, we shall have respite until the common term of the Croisaders, excepting those concerning which a plea had been moved or an inquisition taken by our precept, before our taking the Cross; but as soon as we shall return from our expedition, or if by chance, we should not go upon our expedition, we will immediately do complete justice therein.

LIII. The same respite we shall have and the same justice shall be done, concerning the disforestation of the forests, or the forests which remain to be disforested, which Henry, our father, or Richard, our brother, have afforested; and the same concerning the wardship of lands which are in another's fee, but the wardship of which we have hitherto had, occasioned by any of our fees held by Military Service; and for Abbies founded in any other fee than our own, in which the lord of the fee hath claimed a right; and when we shall have returned, or if we shall stay from our expedition, we shall immediately do complete justice in all these pleas.

LIV. No man shall be apprehended or imprisoned on the appeal of a woman, for the death of any other man than her husband.

LV. All fines that have been made by us unjustly or contrary to the laws of the land; and all amerciements that have been imposed unjustly or contrary to the laws of the land, shall be wholly remitted, or ordered by the verdict of the 25 Barons, of whom mention is made below, for the security of the peace, or by the verdict of the greater part of them, together with the aforesaid Stephen, Archbishop of Canterbury, if he can be present, and others whom he may think fit to bring with him; and if he cannot be present, the business shall proceed, notwithstanding without him; but so, that if any one or more of the aforesaid 25 Barons have a similar plea, let them be removed from that particular trial and others elected and sworn by the residue of the same 25, be substituted in their room, only for that trial.

LVI. If we have disseized or dispossessed any Welshmen of their lands or liberties or other things without a legal verdict of the peers, in England or Wales, they shall be immediately restored to them; and if any dispute shall arise upon this head, then let it be determined in the Marches by the verdict of their peers, for a tenement of England, according to the law of England; for a tenement of Wales, according to the law of Wales; for a tenement of the Marches, according to the law of the Marches. The Welsh shall be the same to us and to our subjects.

LVII. Also concerning those things of which any Welshman hath been disseized or dispossessed without the legal verdict of his peers, by King Henry, our father, or King Richard, our brother, which we have in our hand, or others hold with our warrant, we shall have respite until the common term of the Croisaders, excepting for those concerning which a plea had been moved, or an inquisition made by our precept before our taking the Cross. But as soon as we shall return from our expedition, or if by chance, we should not go upon our expedition, we shall immediately do complete justice therein according to the laws of Wales and the parts aforesaid.

LVIII. We shall immediately deliver up the son of Llewelin, and all the hostages of Wales, and release them from their engagements which were made with us for the security of the peace.

LIX. We shall do to Alexander, King of Scotland, concerning the restoration of his sisters and hostages, and his liberties and his rights, according to the form in which we act to our other Barons of England, unless it ought to be otherwise by the charters which we have from his father William, the late King of Scotland; and this shall be by the verdict of his peers in our court.

LX. Also all these customs and liberties aforesaid, which we have granted to be held in our Kingdom, for so much of it as belongs to us, all our subjects, as well clergy as laity, shall observe towards their tenants as far as concerns them.

LXI. But since we have granted all these things aforesaid, for GOD and for the amendment of our Kingdom, and for the better extinguishing the discord which has arisen between us and our Barons, we being desirous that these things should possess entire and unshaken stability for ever, give and grant to them the security underwritten, namely, that the Barons may elect 25 Barons of the Kingdom, whom they please, who shall with their whole power observe, keep, and cause to be observed the peace and liberties which we have granted to them and have confirmed by this our present Charter, in this manner; that is to say, if we or our Justiciary or our Bailiffs or any of our officers shall have injured anyone in anything, or shall have violated any article of the peace or security, and the injury shall have been shown to 4 of the aforesaid 25 Barons, the said 4 Barons shall come to us or to our Justiciary if we be out of the Kingdom, and making known to us the excess committed, petition that we cause that excess to be redressed without delay. And if we shall not have redressed the excess, or if we have been out of the Kingdom, our Justiciary shall not have redressed it within the term of 40 days, computing from the time when it shall have been made known to us, or to our Justiciary if we have been out of the Kingdom, the aforesaid 4 Barons shall lay that cause before the residue of the 25 Barons; and they, the 25 Barons, with the community of the whole land, shall distress and harass us by all the ways in which they are able; that is to say, by the taking of our castles, lands and possessions, and by any other means in their power, until the excess shall have been redressed, according to their verdict; saving harmless our person and the persons of our Queen and children; and when it hath been redressed, they shall behave to us as they have done before. And whoever of our land pleaseth may swear that he will obey the commands of the aforesaid 25 Barons, in accomplishing all the things aforesaid, and that with them he will harass us to the utmost of his power ; and we publicly and freely give leave to everyone to swear who is willing to swear ; and we will never forbid any to swear. But all those of our land who of themselves and of their own accord are unwilling to swear to the 25 Barons, to distress and harass us together with them, we will compel them by our command to swear as aforesaid. And if any one of the twenty-five Barons shall die, or remove out of the land, or in any other way shall be prevented from executing the things abovesaid, they who remain of the 25 Barons shall elect another in his place, according to their own pleasure, who shall be sworn in the same manner as the rest. In all those things which are appointed to be done by these 25 Barons, if it happen that all the 25 have been present and have differed in their opinions about anything, or if some of them who had been summoned would not, or could not be present, that which the greater part of those who were present shall have provided and decreed shall be held as firm and as valid as if all the 25 had agreed in it ; and the aforesaid 25 shall swear that they will faithfully observe, and with all their power, cause to be observed all the things mentioned above. And we will obtain nothing from anyone, by ourselves or by another, by which any of these concessions and liberties may be revoked or diminished. And if any such thing shall have been obtained, let it be void and null and we will never use it, neither by ourselves nor by another.

LXII. And we have fully remitted and pardoned to all men, all the ill-will rancour and resentment which have arisen between us and our subjects, both clergy and laity, from the commencement of the discord. Moreover, we have fully remitted to all the clergy and laity, and as far as belongs to us, have fully pardoned all transgressions committed by occasion of said discord, from Easter, in the 16th year of our reign, until the conclusion of the peace. And moreover, we have caused to be made to them testimonial letters-patent of the Lord Stephen, Archbishop of Canterbury, the Lord Henry, Archbishop of Dublin, and of the aforesaid Bishops, and of Master Pandulf concerning this security and the aforesaid concessions.

LXIII. Wherefore our will is, and we firmly command, that the Church of England be free, and that the men of our Kingdom have and hold the aforesaid liberties, rights and concessions, well and in peace, freely and quietly, fully and entirely, to them and their heirs, of us and our heirs, in all things and places, forever, as is aforesaid. It is also sworn, both on our part and on that of the Barons, that all the aforesaid shall be observed in good faith and without any evil intention.

Witnessed by the above and many others. Given by our hand in the meadow which is called Runningmead, between Windsor and Staines, this 15th day of June, in the 17th year of our reign.

The Declaration of Independence

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, as has previously been said, was not the starting point of the American Revolution, as many a school boy has vainly imagined. So reluctant were the colonists to separate from the mother country, to which they were naturally and strongly bound by ties of blood and affectionate memory, that they regarded the military operations of their forces during the first eleven months of the war in the light of defensive and preventive rather than aggressive measures; and the Declaration of Independence might have been averted up to within a few weeks of its adoption if the King could have seen and frankly acknowledged his errors and granted the Colonies their rights.

Although several of the Colonies individually had declared for independence before Richard Henry Lee of Virginia offered, as he did in Congress June 7, 1776, his famous motion declaring nevertheless Congress was not yet so thoroughly convinced that public opinion was ripe for independence that it felt warranted in taking action without referring to the Colonies for instructions. At last the conclusion was forced upon them that there was no alternative. The dawn of the new era shone on the horizon, and they knew that the great day had come. They were prepared for it, and they unhesitatingly took the momentous step from which, unlike all previous steps, there was no returning.

“That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown;

The Declaration of Independence was written by Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, then but 33 years old. On the opposite page is a facsimile of a portion of his original draft with corrections by himself. The original copy, with signatures, is preserved in the Library of Congress, at Washington. It has faded so much that some of it is almost illegible.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

ADOPTED JULY 4, 1776.

A Declaration by the Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled:

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station, to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate, that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves, by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large, for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers, to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once, an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the powers of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms: our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts, by their legislature, to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice, and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in GENERAL CONGRESS assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world, for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things, which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of DIVINE PROVIDENCE, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

The Mecklenburg Resolves

THE MECKLENBURG "DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE," so-called, was a series of resolves adopted by the Scotch-Irish inhabitants of Mecklenburg County, N. C., May 31, 1775, which acquired a fictitious importance from the controversy which arose concerning them years afterward. The shedding of blood at Concord, April 19, 1775, had aroused the colonies and all were passing resolutions denouncing the wanton assassination. The Mecklenburg resolves were given to the North Carolina delegates to the Continental Congress but were never presented by them to that body. Thus they were of little more than local importance, and the early American historians quite ignored them. About twenty years later, some of the actors in the proceeding, apparently ignorant of the fact that the resolutions had been permanently recorded in print, attempted to supply them from memory, and put forth a version garnished with phrases from the national Declaration of Independence which gave rise to a fierce contention concerning its authenticity. Many believed it to be the prototype of the great Declaration of Independence and charged Jefferson with plagiarism; but the discovery of the original resolutions in print vindicated the author of our Magna Charta and stripped the legendary Mecklenburg "declaration of independence" of its undeserved importance. The following copy of the resolves is taken from "The South Carolina Gazette and County Journal, of June, 1775, No. 498, printed at Charleston, by Charles Crouch, on the Bay, corner of Elliott Street":

CHARLOTTETOWN, MECKLENBURG COUNTY, N. C., May 31st, 1775.

This day the committee of this county met and passed the following resolves:

WHEREAS, By an address, presented to His Majesty by both Houses of Parliament in February last, the American Colonies are declared to be in a state of actual rebellion, we conceive that all laws and commissions confirmed by or derived from the authority of the King and Parliament are annulled and vacated, and the former civil constitution of these colonies for the present wholly suspended. To provide in some degree for the exigencies of this county, in the present alarming period, we deem it proper and necessary to pass the following resolves, viz.:

I. That all commissions, civil and military, heretofore granted by the crown to be exercised in these colonies, are null and void, and the constitution of each particular colony wholly suspended.

II. That the Provincial Congress of each province, under the direction of the Great Continental Congress, is invested with all legislative and executive powers within their respective provinces, and that no other legislative or executive power does or can exist at this time in any of these colonies.

III. As all former laws are now suspended in this province, and the Congress has not provided others, we judge it necessary for the better preservation of good order, to form certain rules and regulations for the internal government of this county, until laws shall be provided for us by the Congress.

IV. That the inhabitants of this county do meet on a certain day, appointed by the committee, and having formed themselves into nine companies (to wit: eight for the colony and one for the town), do choose a colonel and other military officers, who shall hold and exercise their several powers by virtue of the choice, and independent of the crown of Great Britain, and former constitution of this province.

V. That for the better preservation of the peace and administration of justice, each of those companies do choose from their own body two discreet freeholders, who shall be empowered each by himself, and singly, to decide and determine all matters of controversy arising within said company, under the sum of twenty shillings, and jointly and together, all controversies under the sum of forty shillings, yet so as their decisions may admit of appeal to the convention of the select men of the county, and also that any one of these men shall have power to examine and commit to confinement persons accused of petit larceny.

VI. That those two select men, thus chosen, do jointly and together choose from the body of their particular company two persons to act as constables, who may assist them in the execution of their office.

VII. That upon the complaint of any persons to either of these select men, he do issue his warrant, directed to the constable, commanding him to bring the aggressor before him to answer said complaint.

VIII. That these select eighteen select men thus appointed do meet every third Thursday in January, April, July and October, at the Court House in Charlotte, to hear and determine all matters of controversy for sums exceeding 40s., also appeals; and in case of felony to commit the persons convicted thereof to close confinement until the Provincial Congress shall provide and establish laws and modes of proceeding in all such cases.

IX. That these eighteen select men thus convened do choose a clerk, to record the transactions of said convention, and that said clerk, upon the application of any person or persons aggrieved, do issue his warrant to any of the constables of the company to which the offender belongs, directing said constable to summon and warn said offender to appear before said convention at their next sitting, to answer the aforesaid complaint.

X. That any person making complaint upon oath, to the clerk or any member of the convention, that he has reason to suspect that any person or persons indebted to him in a sum above forty shillings, intend clandestinely to withdraw from the county without paying the debt, the clerk or such member shall issue his warrant to the constable, commanding him to take said person or persons into safe custody until the next sitting of the convention.

XI. That when a debtor for a sum above forty shillings shall abscond and leave the county, the warrant granted as aforesaid shall extend to any goods or chattels of said debtor as may be found, and such goods or chattels be seized and held in custody by the constable for the space of thirty days, in which time, if the debtor fail to return and discharge the debt, the constable shall return the warrant to one of the select men of the company where the goods are found, who shall issue orders to the constable to sell such a part of said goods as shall amount to the sum due.

That when the debt exceeds forty shillings, the return shall be made to the convention, who shall issue orders for sale.

XII. That all receivers and collectors of quit rents, public and county taxes, do pay the same into the hands of the chairman of this committee, to be by them disbursed as the public exigencies may require, and that such receivers and collectors proceed no further in their office until they be approved of by, and have given to, this committee good and sufficient security for a faithful return of such moneys when collected.

XIII. That the committee be accountable to the county for the application of all moneys received from such public officers.

XIV. That all these officers hold their commissions during the pleasure of their several constituents.

XV. That this committee shall sustain all damages to all or any of their officers thus appointed, and thus acting, on account of their obedience and conformity to these rules.

XVI. That whatever person shall hereafter receive a commission from the crown, or attempt to exercise any such commission heretofore received, shall be deemed an enemy to his country; and upon confirmation being made to the captain of the company in which he resides, the said company shall cause him to be apprehended and conveyed before two select men, who, upon proof of the fact, shall commit said offender to safe custody, until the next sitting of the committee, who shall deal with him as prudence may direct.

XVII. That any person refusing to yield obedience to the above rules shall be considered equally criminal, and liable to the same punishment as the offenders above last mentioned.

XVIII. That these resolves be in full force and virtue until instructions from the Provincial Congress regulating the jurisdiction of the province shall provide otherwise, or the legislative body of Great Britain resign its unjust and arbitrary pretensions with respect to America.

XIX. That the eight militia companies in this county provide themselves with proper arms and accoutrements, and hold themselves in readiness to execute the commands and directions of the General Congress of this province and this committee.

XX. That the committee appoint Col. Thomas Polk and Dr. Joseph Kennedy to purchase 300 pounds of powder, 600 pounds of lead, 1,000 flints, for the use of the militia of this county, and deposit the same in such place as the committee may hereafter direct.

Signed, by order of the committee.

EPH. BREVARD,
Clerk of the Committee.

Roll of Members

NOTE: Membership in the Sons of the American Revolution is based only on lineal descent from an ancestor who assisted in securing the Independence of the United States, and wherever the Revolutionary services of collateral members of a family are given in the following pages, they are mentioned only as matters of interest, as are many other facts which in themselves constitute no ground for eligibility. Generations ante-dating the Revolutionary ancestors are given when they have been available, as adding to the value of the book, but the absence of antecedent lineage in other cases does not necessarily indicate that the families can be traced no further, as the Society does not require that the line shall be given further back than the Revolutionary patriot. In order to assist the eye, an index figure has been substituted for a repetition of the word "great" in generations more remote than great-grandson. Thus "great<sup>3</sup>-grandson" signifies "great-great-grandson;" "great<sup>4</sup>-grandson" means "great-great-great-great-grandson," etc. The names of lineal ancestors who participated in the Revolution are printed in italics. The accompanying illustrations are the voluntary contributions of the members.

Merchant. Born in Lancaster, N. H., October 26, 1848.

whose first wife was Sarah Swift and second Widow Warren, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Edward Adams, whose first wife was Rachel Saunders and second Sarah Bracket, great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of John Adams and Deborah Partridge, great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Edward Adams and Lydia Rockwood, and great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Henry Adams and Mary Alexander, who came to America from Devonshire, England, in 1630, and with their eight sons settled near Mount Wallaston, Mass. Andrew Adams was born in Milton, Mass., August 12, 1735; married, December 16, 1757, Ruth Wadsworth, daughter of Rev. John Wadsworth; her grandfather was Benjamin Wadsworth, president of Harvard College from 1725 to 1737, the time of his death; General Peleg Wadsworth, Adjutant-General of Massachusetts, was her brother. The Wadsworths were lineally descended from Priscilla Mullins and John Alden, of Mayflower memory. Before the war Andrew Adams held commissions as Coroner and Lieutenant of Cavalry, under George III.; nevertheless he enlisted in April, 1775, under Captain Joseph Vose, served at Cambridge, Squantum and other places until March 4, 1776, when he belonged to the first detachment that took Dorchester Heights. He was an officer in Colonel Robertson's regiment at Roxbury, and also marched with Lieut.-Colonel Wheelock on an alarm for Bennington. He moved to Palmer, Mass., in 1802, thence to Lancaster, N. H., where he died April 14, 1833.

Brown, grandson of Matthew Brown and Mary Williamina Ferguson, great-grandson of William Ferguson and Susan Ewing, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Usher Ferguson and Mary, his wife, of Armah, Ireland. William Ferguson was appointed Third Lieutenant in Colonel Thomas Proctor's regiment of Pennsylvania artillery, October 5, 1776, and participated in the battles of Trenton, Princeton, Brandywine and Germantown; in 1779, was with Sullivan's forces in the expedition against the Six Nations; in 1780 was a prisoner of war at Flatbush, L. I., and was exchanged December 1, 1780. Before the close of the war he had been promoted to a captaincy for his bravery. He was one of the original members of the Cincinnati, and was one of those who gave one month's pay to the society's funds. In 1787 he was in command of Fort McIntosh (now Beaver, Pa.) and later at Fort Washington (now Cincinnati). On Washington's nomination he was made Major of Artillery and fell while fighting the Indians under General St. Clair, November 3, 1791.

Lawyer. Born in New York, February 28, 1865. Son of John Hull Allen and Mary Hill, grandson of Samuel Fleming Allen and Phoebe Goble, great-grandson of Captain Samuel Allen and Elizabeth Fleming, etc. [See Ethan Allen].

36. ALLEN, ETHAN. 4036.
New York City.

Lawyer. Born in Monmouth County, N. J., May 12, 1832. Son of Samuel Fleming Allen and Phoebe Goble, grandson of Samuel Allen and Elizabeth Fleming, great-grandson of Samuel Allen, Sr., and Annar Ellison, great-grandson of Daniel (or David) Allen. Samuel Allen was born in Monmouth County, N. J., in 1757, and died there in 1830. His grandfather settled in New Jersey about 1740, and was brother of Joseph, who was the father of the famous Ethan Allen of Vermont. The senior Samuel was a Quaker, but his son fully compensated for his father's non-combatant principles by the energy and daring with which he espoused the American cause. A bold and dashing youth, at the head of a company of independent patriots, he was the champion of the persecuted and the terror of the Tories. He was repeatedly driven from home by parties sent to capture him; thrice saw his house burned; once captured and escaped. He was merciless with his enemies, and captured and hanged them by his own decree. His daring and his wealth gave him a commanding position in his vicinity, and he was by common consent the General-in-Chief of military movement in his district, and the judge of the prisoners brought before him. Captain Allen was one of the most picturesque figures of the Revolution outside of the regularly enlisted troops.

19. AMES, LUTHER STEARNS. 4019.
Glens Falls, N. Y.

Captain, U. S. A., retired. Born in Plattsburgh, N. Y., April 22, 1833. Son of David A. Ames and Louisa Gordon, and grandson of David Ames of Hollis, N. H., who was one of those many patriots who sprang to arms on hearing of the fight at Concord Bridge, and who participated in the battle of Bunker Hill, where he was wounded. A return of Captain Reuben Drew's company of Colonel William Prescott's regiment, dated Cambridge, Mass., October 6, 1775, contained in the Massachusetts Revolutionary Rolls, bears his name.

316. ANDREWS, DAVID CURRAN. 4316.
New York City.

Commission merchant. Born in Memphis, January 9, 1862. Son of Joseph I. Andrews and Miriam Nones, grandson of Joseph B. Nones and Eveline De Leon, and great-grandson of Benjamin Nones and Miriam Marks. Benjamin Nones was born in Bordeaux, France, March 9, 1757, and came to America in 1777. He settled in Philadelphia, where he died February 9, 1826. Early in the war he formed the acquaintance of Lafayette and Washington, and subsequently served on the staffs of both. He entered the service under Pulaski, from whom he received a letter commending his bravery under fire at Savannah, of which he was an eyewitness. He was also an aide on DeKalb's staff, and helped carry him from the field when he fell. On his retirement from the army, Major Nones became the sworn interpreter of the United States government at Philadelphia.

Also grandson of Joseph Andrews and Sally Salomon, and great-grandson of Haym Salomon and Rachel Frank. [See William Jones Salomon].

301.           ANDREWS, GEORGE OSGOOD.           4301.

249.           ATKINSON, BENJAMIN WALKER.           4249.
Fort Thomas, Newport, Ky.

Lieutenant, U. S. A. Born in St. Louis, Mo., January 2, 1859. Son of Edward Graham Atkinson and Harriette L. Walker, grandson of Benjamin Walker, 3d, and Mary Houston; great-grandson of Benjamin Walker, 2d, and Sarah Muzzey; and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Benjamin Walker, 1st, and Sarah Webster. Benjamin Walker, 1st, was born in Bradford, Mass., in 1735. He was Captain in the Fourth battalion of New York State militia, raised in November, 1776; Captain of the Sixth company of the Fourth regiment of the New York line November 21, 1776; aide to Baron Steuben, September, 1778; and aide to Washington, January 25, 1782.

41.           ATTERBURY, WALTER BUTLER.           4041.
New York City.

Broker. Born New York City, September 18, 1854. Son of Lewis Atterbury and Susan Lewis Butler, grandson of Lewis Atterbury and Catharine Boudinot, great-grandson of Elisha Boudinot and Kate Smith, and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of William Peartree Smith and Mary Bryant. William Peartree Smith of New York and New Jersey, was the grandson of the Governor-General of Jamaica on one side and of William Peartree, a well-known Mayor of New York City, on the other. He was a member of the First and Second Provincial Congresses of New Jersey. As member of the First, he was chairman of the Committee of Correspondence appointed in July, 1774, which virtually assumed the functions of government and raised money and troops for defense. The Second Provincial Congress, which met at Trenton, May 23, 1775, elected William Peartree Smith and Elias Boudinot (brother of Elisha) a committee to attend the Continental Congress at Philadelphia and report action and ask advice.

The Boudinot family are descendants of Elie Boudinot and Janice Baraud of Rochelle, France, who came to New York about 1686. Elisha Boudinot married Kate Smith 1778. Alexander Hamilton was "best man," being then twenty-one years of age and an aide on Washington's staff. Elisha Boudinot was a member of the General Committee of Safety elected at a meeting of freeholders of Newark, N. J., May 4, 1775, and later was a member of the Committee of Safety of New Jersey. After the war he was elected Judge of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, and his portrait is in the capital at Trenton.

343.            AVERY, TRUEMAN GARDNER.            4343.
Buffalo, N. Y.

Lawyer. Born in Lenox, N. Y., July 30, 1837. Son of Jared Newell Avery and Cornelia Benham, and grandson of Gardner Avery, Sr., and Amy Newell. Gardner Avery, Sr., was born in 1752, and lived in Monson, Mass., and afterwards in Paris Furnace, Oneida County, N. Y. In 1776 he enlisted in Captain Ball's company, Colonel Larnet's regiment, Massachusetts militia, and served one year, during which he took part in the battle of East Chester. In 1818, while living in Oneida County, he was pensioned by the United States Government. The name was then spelled "Avary."

San Francisco, Cal.

Late Lieutenant, U. S. A. Born in Boston, Mass., October 31, 1847; died, August 23, 1892. Son of John A. Bolles and Catherine Dix, grandson of Timothy Dix and Rachel Burbank, and great-grandson of Jonathan Dix and Martha Sherman Shuttuck. Capt. Timothy Dix descended from Anthony Dix, a sea captain, who landed at Plymouth in 1623. He was born at Boscawen Plain, N. H., December 7, 1743, and died in Pembroke, N. H., June 27, 1824. He raised and equipped a company for the war, and was in command of it under Gen. Stark at the battle of Bunker Hill.

109. BOND, A. CURTIS. 4109.
New York City.

Editor. Born in New York, April 14, 1854. Son of Addison F. Bond and Anne E. Hutchings, grandson of William Bond and Elizabeth Thompson, great-grandson of Benjamin Thompson and great-grandson of Daniel Thompson and Phebe Snow. Daniel Thompson was born in Concord, Mass., in June, 1732. Previous to the Revolution he was Captain of the Guards attached to the royal Governor of Massachusetts, but resigned his commission on the breaking out of the war, and went to Woburn, where his family lived. On the morning of April 19, 1775, hearing of the British advance on Concord, he galloped to that town to warn the people, and joined in the fight there. Stationed behind a barn, it is said that he killed one British officer and three privates, but several of the enemy ran around the barn and shot him dead. Isaac Snow Thompson, son of Daniel, at the close of the war held the rank of Captain. Jonathan Thompson, Daniel's nephew, though a boy, melted up into bullets the lead weights of the scales in his father's store, borrowed a musket, and shot at the British as they retreated from Concord to Boston.

Also grandson of — Hutchings and — — —, and great-grandson of John B. Hutchings and Katherine Menus. Col. John B. Hutchings commanded a regiment of New York volunteers at the battle of Long Island; joined in Washington's retreat through New York and the Jerseys; commanded a regiment that recrossed the Delaware with Washington's army on Christmas night, 1776; was raised from Lieutenant-Colonel to full Colonel after the victory at Trenton, and was with his regiment in the immediate division led by Washington in the manœuvres by which he outwitted Cornwallis.

179. BONESTEEL, CHARLES HARTWELL. 4179.
Fort Sidney, Neb.

16. BULL, WILLIAM LANMAN. 4016.
New York City.

Broker. Born in New York City, 1845. Son of Frederic Bull and Mary H. Lanman, grandson of Peter Lanman and Abby Trumbull, great-grandson of David Trumbull, and great-grandson of Jonathan Trumbull and Faith Robinson. Jonathan Trumbull, the distinguished American patriot, was born in Lebanon, Conn., October 12, 1710, and died August 17, 1785. He was graduated at Harvard College in 1727; was successively Judge, Deputy-Governor and Governor (1769-83) of Connecticut, and was very zealous in forwarding the cause of independence. He was the intimate and confidential friend of Washington, who placed great reliance on his wisdom and judgment, and who frequently turned to him for counsel. From this habit of Washington's and his oft-repeated phrase, "Let us hear what Brother Jonathan has to say," arose the expression "Brother Jonathan" as the personification of the United States. The name Trumbull was anciently "Turn-bull," which is said to have been earned by the faithful attendant of a Scottish king, who turned from his majesty a maddened bull which attacked him in the chase.

Designs on Garret Myers' pewter tankard, now owned by Capt. Corbusier.

Vorst. Garret Myers (formerly spelled Myer or Meyer) was born in Rockland county, N. Y., October 13, 1730, and died there in April, 1801. He signed the pledge of the General Association of the city and county of New York in 1775, in the Haverstraw Precinct, Rockland county, N. Y. He became a minute man, and, toward the latter part of the war, was taken prisoner by a party of British and Tories, who plundered his house and knocked down his wife, breaking two of her ribs. Too weak from fever to walk, they lashed a feather bed to his back and dragged him along the road to Slougher's—now Rockland Lake Landing—where they boarded their vessel. Here they hung him by his heels several times to gain information concerning the American troops and to force him to cheer for George the Third. He gave them no information and cheered for George

First Lieutenant, U. S. A. Born in Indianapolis, Ind., March 20, 1858. Son of John D. DeFrees and Elizabeth Mitchell Morris, grandson of Morris Morris and Rachel, his wife, great-grandson of James Morris, Jr. and Eleanor, his wife, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of James Morris, Sr. [See Louis T. Morris.]

79.           DEGROOT, WILLIAM.           4079.
New York City.

President Hudson River Bank. Born in New York, March 29, 1825. Son of Henry de Groot and Mary Nesbitt, grandson of William de Groot and Anne La Tourette, great-grandson of John de Groot and Elizabeth Olden, and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Jacob de Groot. William de Groot was born in New Jersey, June 7, 1751, and died in Bound Brook, N. J., August 28, 1840. He served as a Sergeant, was promoted to Ensign, and again promoted to Lieutenant in the First regiment of Middlesex county, N. J., militia.

56.           DENNIS, GEORGE COOPER.           4056.
New York City.

Merchant. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., December 10, 1867. Son of Edward D. Dennis and Imogene Page Cooper, grandson of George H. Cooper and Caroline A., his wife, great-grandson of George H. Cooper and Catherine Luff, and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Samuel Cooper and Mary Horton. Samuel Cooper was born in Boston in 1760, and died in Alexandria, Va., August 19, 1840. He was a member of the Boston Tea Party; Second Lieutenant of Crane's artillery, February 1, 1777; Quartermaster May 14, 1778; fought at Bunker Hill, Trenton, Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth and other sanguinary battles; and was made Lieutenant and Adjutant in 1783. He was official inspector of pearl ashes in 1808-30; and was one of the founders of the Cincinnati. He left several distinguished descendants; his son Samuel was Adjutant-General, U. S. A., until 1861, and subsequently Adjutant-General, C. S. A., and his grandson, George H. Cooper was Rear-Admiral U. S. N., until 1884, when he was retired.

2.           DEPEW, CHAUNCEY MITCHELL.       4002.
New York City.

President of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company. Born in Peekskill, N. Y., April 23, 1834. Son of Isaac Depew and Martha Mitchell, grandson of Chauncey Root Mitchell and Ann Johnstone, great-grandson of Rev. Justus Mitchell and Martha Sherman, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Rev. Josiah Sherman and Martha Minot, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of William Sherman and Rebecca Cutler, great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Joseph Sherman and Elizabeth Winship, and great<sup>5</sup>-grandson of Capt. John Sherman, who came from England in 1634. The Rev. Josiah Sherman was born in Woodbury, Conn., in 1734, and died November 24, 1789. He was graduated from Princeton College in 1754, and received the honorary degree of A. M. at Harvard in 1758, and at Yale in 1765. He was an able writer and powerful orator, and labored with his brother, Roger Sherman, signer of the Declaration of Independence, with voice and pen, for the establishment of American Independence. His efforts, however, were not confined within the secure limits of his pulpit, but he practiced what he preached, and served in the field as Chaplain of the Seventh regiment of the Connecticut Continental Line.

Also great grandson of Robert Johnstone and Mary Ogden, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Gabriel Ogden. Gabriel Ogden was a private in the Sussex county, New Jersey, militia during the Revolutionary war. The family was numerous and patriotic. Most of the Ogden family of Sussex county served in Capt. James Bonnel's company in the First regiment of Sussex county militia. This company was engaged during nearly all the war in repelling invasions from the hostile Indians in Pennsylvania. Capt. Bonnel's company order book shows a great amount of difficult and perilous service throughout the war.

In the Depew line, Mr. Depew is of French Huguenot descent, the original name being DuPuy.

DERR, EZRA Z.

New York City.

Surgeon, U. S. N. Born in Frederick county, Md., January 12, 1851. Son of John Derr, Jr., and Elizabeth Lugenbeel, grandson of John Derr and Catherine Stoner, great-grandson of John Stoner (or Steiner) and Catherine E. Ramsberger, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Jacob Steiner, who came from Germany in the early part of the eighteenth century, and settled in Frederick county, Maryland. His son changed the name to the English equivalent, Stoner. John Stoner was born in Frederick county about 1735, and died there about 1798. He served in the French and Indian war, and was Captain of a militia company in the Revolutionary war in 1775. On the 12th of September, 1775, he was chosen one of the Committee of Observation for the middle district of his county.

The paternal progenitor of Ezra Z. Derr was Sebastian Derr or Dueré, as it was originally spelled, a native of Switzerland, of Huguenot descent, who settled in Frederick county, Maryland, in the year 1745.

DILLENBACK, JOHN W.

United States Army.

Captain First Artillery. Born in Orleans, Jefferson county, N. Y., May 19, 1842. Son of Solomon Dillenback and Amy McMullen, grandson of John B. Dillenback and Susanna Moak, great-grandson of Baltus Dillenback and Mary Metzger, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Martinus Dillenback. The Dillenback family were among the first settlers, nearly 200 years ago, of what is now Montgomery and Herkimer counties, N. Y., but what, with the present counties of Fulton, Ontario, Otsego, Tioga and Hamilton, composed the large territory known as Tryon county, over a century ago. Baltus Dillenback was born there, and on August 5, 1763, married Mary Metzger. He was a private in Captain Henry Diefendorf's company, (the Fifth,) of the Tryon county militia, which was in active service from 1779 to 1783. At the battle of Oriskany, August 6, 1777, the Captain of his company fell, as did also his brother, Capt. Andrew Dillenback, and many others. At one time three of the enemy rushed within the American circle and tried to make a prisoner of Capt. Dillenback, who had declared that he would never be taken alive. One of them seized his gun, but the Captain wrenched it from him, struck him down with the butt, turned upon the second, shot him dead, and in an instant more had thrust the third through with the bayonet. Hardly had he accomplished this feat when a musket ball killed him.

133.

DILLENBACK, L. SPENCER.

4133.

New York City.

Merchant. Born in Orleans, N. Y., December 3, 1844. Son of Solomon Dillenback and Amy McMullen, grandson of John B. Dillenback and Susanna Moak, great-grandson of Baltus Dillenback and Mary Metzger, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Martinus Dillenback. [See John W. Dillenback.]

184. DIVEN, ALEXANDER S. 4184.
Elmira, N. Y.

Retired lawyer. Born in Catharine (now Dix), N. Y., February 10, 1809. Son of John Diven and Eleanor Means, and grandson of Alexander Diven and Margaret Smith. John Diven was the son of Protestant Irish parents who came to this country from county Tyrone, Ireland. He was born in 1752, lived in Pennsylvania, and died in 1838. He was a cabinet-maker's apprentice, and was induced, with other apprentices, to enter the company of a cabinet maker named Kelly. He was at the battle of Princeton, and helped to guard the Hessian prisoners, whose terror at fear of execution he described to his son, Gen. Alexander S. Diven. He wintered at Valley Forge, and his experiences there, including his hardships and a pathetic scene at a review of troops by Washington, A. S. Diven also had from his father's own lips. The patriotic spirit of the father was inherited by the son, whose title of General was earned in the Union army in the late war.

On the maternal side, Gen. Diven is grandson of John Means and Elizabeth Clark, and great-grandson of Robert Means and Jane Irving, sister of Gen. Irving of the Continental army.

171. DODGE, RICHARD IRVING. 4171.
Sacket's Harbor, N. Y.

Colonel, U. S. A., retired. Born in Huntsville, N. C., May 19, 1827. Son of James Richard Dodge and Susan Williams, grandson of Richard Dodge and Ann Sarah Irving, and great-grandson of Samuel Dodge and Helena Amerman. The Dodge family runs back to William Dodge (great-grandfather of Samuel), who was of pure Saxon stock. He came from England to Salem, Mass., June 30, 1629. Tristram, great-grandfather of Samuel, acquired Block Island by purchase from the Indians. Richard, the patriot, was born in

New York, December 31, 1762; married the sister of Washington Irving February 14, 1787; and died September 3, 1832, in Johnstown, N. Y. He was a drummer boy in his brother Capt. Henry Dodge's company, in Wessenfel's New York regiment, having run away from his home in Poughkeepsie when the army was at Valley Forge. In the war of 1812 he was Brigadier-General of the Mohawk brigade.

DOWNES, ANSON TREAT.

New York City.

Retired. Born in Southbury, Conn., November 30, 1817. Son of Ebenezer Downes and Mary Esther Bryan, grandson of Ebenezer Downs and Abigail Stancliff, great-grandson of Capt. Ebenezer Downes and Dinah Bristol, and great-grandson of Ebenezer Downes and Mary Umberfield. Capt. Ebenezer Downes was born in New Haven, Conn., March 28, 1707, and lived in Woodbury, Conn. His title was derived from his command of a company during the French wars. During the Revolutionary war he was a member of the Committee of Safety of his town.

Also grandson of Jehiel Bryan Jr., and Mary Treat, and great-grandson of Jehiel Bryan, Sr., and Esther Buckingham. Jehiel Bryan, Sr., of Milford, Conn., was married June 4, 1753. He was first Lieutenant in the Third company, Col. Douglas' regiment, Wadsworth's brigade, of Connecticut, served in New York and Brooklyn; participated in the battle of Long Island and in the retreat from New York in September, and fought at White Plains in October. His term expired December 25, 1776.

Jehiel Bryan, Jr., was born in Milford, Conn., in 1755, and was Sergeant in Capt. Mix's company, Col. Moseley's regiment, ordered to the Hudson soon after the battle of Monmouth, and stationed at Fort Clinton, West Point and other critical places in the dangerous territory along the Hudson.

339.         DOWNES, STANCLIFF BAZEN.         4339.
                     New York City.

Civil engineer. Born in New York, December 5, 1859.
 Son of Anson Treat Downes (No. 278) and Eliza Bazen. [See
 Anson Treat Downes.]

23.         DRAYTON, JAMES COLEMAN.         4023.
                     New York City.

Lawyer. Born in Philadelphia, Penn., June 4, 1852.
 Son of Henry Edward Drayton and Sarah Hand Coleman, grandson of William Drayton, Jr., and Maria Miles Heyward, great-grandson of William Drayton and Mary Motte, great<sup>2</sup>- grandson of Thomas Drayton and Elizabeth Bull, and great<sup>3</sup>- grandson of Thomas Drayton of Drayton, Northampton, Eng., who came to this country in 1671, and settled in South Carolina. William Drayton was born in South Carolina
 March 21, 1732. At the commencement of the Revolutionary war he was Chief Justice of East Florida under the Crown. He resigned this position, however, returned to South Carolina, and actively espoused the cause of American independence as a member of the South Carolina Committee of Safety and otherwise. After the conclusion of peace he was appointed Judge of the United States Court. Maria Miles Heyward was the daughter of William Heyward, whose brother, Thomas, signed the Declaration of Independence.

Also grandson of James Coleman and Harriette Dawson, and great-grandson of Robert Coleman and Harriette Olde.
 Robert Coleman owned an iron furnace at Elizabeth, near Lebanon, Penn., and supplied the army with cannon, etc.

107.         DUDLEY, EDGAR SWARTWOUT.         4107.
                     San Antonio, Texas.

Captain, U. S. A. Born in Oppenheim, N. Y., June 14, 1845. Son of James M. Dudley and Maria Swartwout, grandson of Peter Dudley and Lucy Barnard, great-grandson of Stephen Dudley and Lydia Harwood, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Samuel Dudley and Abigail Waters, great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Samuel Dudley and Abigail King, and great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Francis Dudley and Sarah Wheeler. Stephen Dudley was born in Littleton, Mass., July 2, 1735, and died in South Carolina in 1784. He was a private in Capt. Isaac Wood's company, Col. Jonathan Reed's regiment of Guards, at Cambridge, Mass., 1778. This family has been noted for its military service. Francis Dudley of Concord, Mass., took part in the Indian wars of 1675, and his descendants have participated in every war in America since then except the Mexican. Of fifteen grandsons of Gen. Peter Dudley of military age in 1861-65, twelve were in the service, of whom three died in the war, three were wounded, and six won commissions.

Also grandson of Samuel Swartwout, and Parthenia Cline, great-grandson of Johannes Swartwout and Altje Begle, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Samuel Swartwout and Phœbe Poedne (or Pudney), great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Jacobus Swartwout and Gilletzen Cornelisse Newkirk, great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Thomas Swartwout and Lysbet Gardiner, and great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Roeloff Swartwout and Eva Alberts Bradt. Roeloff Swartwout came to America from Holland in 1655, and was first Schout, or Sheriff, of Ulster county under Peter Stuyvesant. Samuel Swartwout, the patriot, of Kingston, N. Y., was born January 23, 1726, and was a private in Capt. Shults' company, Col. Brinckerhoof's regiment, of Dutchess county, N. Y., militia.

Also great-grandson of Benjamin Barnard and Lucy Wood. Benjamin Barnard lived in Peru, Vt., whither he moved from Westminster, Mass., in 1800. On the Lexington alarm he marched to Cambridge in Capt. Noah Miles' company. He fought at Bunker Hill; was in Boston when Washington assumed command, and served in New Jersey. He received a wound in the leg which crippled him for life.

185. DUDLEY, HARWOOD. 4185.
Johnstown, N. Y.

Lawyer. Born in Oppenheim, N. Y., September 11, 1852. Son of James M. Dudley and Maria Swartwout, etc. [See Edgar Swartwout Dudley.]

57. DUNNELL, JOHN H. 4057.
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Born in Croton, N. Y., December 12, 1813. Son of Elbridge Gerry Dunnell and Sarah Nichols, grandson of Henry Dunnell and Tamar Gale, great-grandson of Henry Dunnell and Hannah Daggett, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Jonathan Dunnell and Mehitabel Kenny, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Thomas Dunnell and Dinah Brimsdell, and great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Michael Dunnell and Mary, his wife. There were eleven different authentic ways of spelling the name of the old New England family of Dunnell, namely, Doniel, Donell, Dunnel, Dunnell, Dunnil, Dunnill, Dwinnelle, Dwinnell, Dwinnel, Dwinel and Dunwell. Henry Dunnell (or Dwinel), was born in Sutton, Mass., February 22, 1762, and died October 17, 1805, at Albany, N. Y. He was a private in the Sutton company of Massachusetts militia; participated in the battle of Stony Point; and was at West Point when André was hung. Five other members of the Dwinel family of Sutton were soldiers in the Revolution.

127. DU VAL, HORACE CLARK. 4127.
New York City.

Private secretary. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 4, 1851. Son of William Du Val and Caroline Nichols Clark, grandson of Horace Clark and Emily Nichols, and great-grandson of Thaddeus Nichols and Aner Cone. Thaddeus Nichols was born in Princeton, Mass., February 9, 1762, and died in Middletown, Conn., February 8, 1842. In 1778 he enlisted in the "Chore Rangers," under Capt. Aldrich, Major Benjamin Whitcomb's command, employed on the northern frontier watching the lines and protecting settlements from Indians. In November, 1778, they defeated a body of Indians and British between Ticonderoga and Crown Point. In March, 1781, he was made Orderly Sergeant in Capt. Blakely's company, Col. Samuel Fletcher's regiment, Vermont troops; was stationed at Castleton, on the Canadian frontier, and served as clerk to Elisha Clark, Issuing Commissary to the brigade. He was a United States pensioner.

281. FOLSOM, GEORGE THORNDIKE. 4281.
San Francisco, Cal.

Accountant. Born in New York City, September 21, 1833. Son of Lewis Deland Folsom and Elizabeth Woodwell Hunt, grandson of Lewis Folsom and Eunice B. Deland, great-grandson of Benjamin Folsom and Mary Baker, great'-grandson of Lieut. Jonathan Folsom and Deborah Hall, great'-grandson of Jonathan Folsom and Anna Ladd, and great'-grandson of John Folsom and Abigail, his wife. The origin of the Folsom family, so far as known, dates back to John Foulsham, prior of a Carmelite monastery, Provincial of all England and D.D. of Cambridge, who died in 1348. Lieut. Jonathan Folsom was born in Exeter, N. H., in 1724, and lived in Newmarket, Epping and New Durham. He was a soldier in 1745 and 1755, in the latter year receiving a bullet in the shoulder. In 1766 he lost a leg by the bursting of a cannon celebrating the repeal of the Stamp Act. On the outbreak of the Revolution, he made his way to Bunker Hill, hobbled into battle on his wooden leg, and took charge of a mortar. It is recorded that the second bomb he fired landed on a British man-of-war and compelled its withdrawal. He was a brother of Gen. Nathaniel Folsom of Revolutionary fame.

112. FOYÉ, ANDREW J. C. 4112.
New York City.

Merchant. Born in Shamokin, Penn., December 23, 1833. Son of William Foyé and Jane Miller, grandson of Barkley

Miller and Sarah Miller, and great-grandson of Robert Miller and Ann Barkley. Robert Miller was a private in Capt. Ogden's company, First regiment, New Jersey Continental Line, Third Establishment. He also served in the Eastern battalion, Morris county militia (Jacob Ford, Jr., Colonel), and in the "State troops," the service of which is well known. They were active in the engagements at Quinton's Bridge, Hancock's Bridge, Three Rivers, Connecticut Farms and Van Neste's Mills, and efficiently supported the Continental Line at the battles of Long Island, Trenton, Assunpink, Princeton, Germantown, Springfield and Monmouth. Private Miller also rendered important service to the starving army at Valley Forge in the terrible winter of 1778-9. Having been born and reared in the vicinity, he was familiar with the entire region, and turned his knowledge to account by levying upon the storehouses and barns of the Tories who resided there, and though he endured great perils and hardships himself, he obtained large quantities of food for the suffering army. He died October 29, 1827.

270. FOYÉ, FRANK MENDON. 4270.
Jersey City, N. J.

Real estate dealer. Born in Mt. Gilead, Ohio, June 19, 1853. Son of William Foyé and Jane Miller, etc. [See A. J. C. Foyé.]

110. GAINES, CLEMENT CARRINGTON. 4110.
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

President of Eastman College. Born in Mossingford, Va., March 15, 1857. Son of Richard Venable Gaines and Jane Virginia Watkins, grandson of William Morton Watkins and Elizabeth Woodson Venable, great-grandson of Joel Watkins and Agnes Morton, and great-grandson of Thomas Watkins, who came from Wales and was one of the early settlers of Virginia. Joel lived and died in Woodfork, Charlotte county, Va. He was Lieutenant-Colonel in a regiment raised in Charlotte county in 1781, commanded by Col. Thomas Read, to reinforce Gen. Green, who had been driven across Dan river by Cornwallis. It is said that this regiment turned the tide of battle and had the pleasure of witnessing Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown. William Morton, brother of Joel Watkins' wife and great<sup>2</sup>-grandfather of Mr. Gaines through his father's mother, was a Major in the same regiment.

Also great-grandson of Samuel Woodson Venable and Mary Read Carrington, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Paul Carrington and Margaret Read, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Clement Read and Mary Hill, who came from England and settled in Virginia. Judge Paul Carrington was a member of the Committee of Safety for Charlotte county, Va., member of the House of Burgesses, Judge of the Court of Appeal, and in various capacities was patriotically active in public affairs before and during the Revolutionary war.

145. GARDEN, HUGH RICHARDSON. 4145.
New York City.

Lawyer. Born in Sumter, S. C., July 9, 1840. Son of Alester Garden (Gibbes) and Elizabeth Richardson, grandson of Wilmot S. Gibbes and Anna Frances de Saussure, great-grandson of Henry William de Saussure and Eliza Ford, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Daniel de Saussure and Mary McPherson. The father of Hugh R. Garden was born a Gibbes, but at the request of his uncle, Major Alexander Garden of Lee's Legion, had his name changed by the Legislature to Alester Garden. Daniel de Saussure was born in Beaufort District, S. C., August 12, 1733; lived in Charleston; agitated to expel the British Provincial Governor; was member of the Provincial Congress; captured in the defense of Charleston, 1780; sent prisoner to St. Augustine, and after the war was State Senator till 1791, part of the time being President of the Senate.

CHANCELLOR HENRY WILLIAM DESAGULIÈRE.

Henry William de Saussure, at the age of 16, also fought in defense of Charleston; was prisoner in 1780 on the prison-ship "Packhorse;" was member of the South Carolina Constitutional Convention and Legislature; director of the United States Mint; and from 1808 to 1837 a Chancellor of the State.

Also grandson of William Richardson and Emma C. Buford, great-grandson of William Richardson and Magdalen Guignard, and great-grandson of William Richardson and Anna Poinsette. William Richardson, the patriot, was born in Jamestown, Va., about July 15, 1740, and lived in Virginia and South Carolina. He was a member of the First Provincial Congress of South Carolina; Captain in the First regiment of riflemen, 1776; paroled after the capitulation of Charleston; exchanged in 1781; was immediately appointed Quartermaster, and so continued to the close of the war.

Also great-grandson of Col. William Buford of Virginia of the Continental army.

Also great-grandson of Robert Gibbs of John's Island, S. C., who, though a confirmed invalid, was driven from his plantation with his family and took refuge in Charleston, and whose property was sequestrated by the British.

295. GARLINGTON, ERNEST ALBERT. 4295.
Fort Riley, Kan.

Captain, U. S. A. Born in Newberry Court House, S. C., February 20, 1853. Son of Albert Creswell Garlington and Sally Lark Moon, grandson of Peter Moon and Susan Satterwhite, and great-grandson of John Satterwhite and Susannah McKie. John Satterwhite was born in Virginia, and before the war moved to the Ninty-Six District, S. C. He was a member of the South Carolina Provincial Congress, 1775, and member of the local Committee of Safety. In this capacity his duties were onerous and dangerous, as Ninety-Six was one of the last strategic points of the British in South Carolina to be abandoned, and was thoroughly dyed with Tory sympathy. He also served on occasions as scout and partisan soldier.

387.       GAZZAM, EDWIN VAN DEUSEN,       4387.
New York City.

Physician. Born in Utica, N. Y., February 5, 1866. Son of Col. Audley W. Gazzam and Mary Elizabeth Van Deusen, grandson of Edward D. Gazzam, M. D., and Elizabeth Antoinette Beelen, great-grandson of William Gazzam, Jr., and Ann Parker, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of William Gazzam and Martha Hart. Gazzam is a Bible name, "the children of Gazzam" being mentioned in Nathaniel vi:51, among those who returned from the captivity in Babylon. William Gazzam, Jr., was an English journalist, born in Cambridge, who espoused the American cause, incurred the enmity of George III, and was forced to flee. He arrived in Philadelphia, Penn., and moved thence to Pittsburg, Penn., of which port he was appointed first collector by Madison. He died in Pittsburg in 1811.

Also, grandson of Edwin Martin Van Deusen, D. D., and Eliza Maria Gilbert, great-grandson of Isaac Laird Van Deusen and Lovina Hart, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Jacob Van Deusen and Mary Laird, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Isaac Van Deusen and Fitie (or Fiche) Burghardt. Isaac Van Deusen was of Dutch ancestry. With his father-in-law, Coonrod Burghardt (son of Hendrick Burghardt), he moved from Kinderhook, N. Y., to Great Barrington, Mass., of which he was one of the first settlers. Jacob Van Deusen was born there July 15, 1741, and died May 26, 1812. He was a member of the Committee of Safety of Great Barrington in 1776.

Also great-grandson of Banford Gilbert and Elizabeth Edwards, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Thaddeus Gilbert and Martha Turney. Thaddeus Gilbert was born in Connecticut in 1756 and died in Spencertown, N. Y., in 1833. On May 8, 1775, he enlisted in the Fifth company, Fifth regiment, Connecticut militia, and served till December 13, 1775, and re-enlisted for the war March 4, 1777, in Capt. Comstock's company, Eighth regiment, Connecticut Line.

Also great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Samuel Edwards and Jane Shelton.

Edwards Coat-of-Arms.

Samuel Edwards of Fairfield county, Conn., was born October 20, 1756, and died in Manlius, N. Y., August 5, 1838. He enlisted May 8, 1775, in the Second company, Fifth regiment, Connecticut Line.

Elizabeth Antoinette Beelen, mentioned above, was daughter of Constantine Antoine de Beelen and granddaughter of Baron Antoine de Beelen de Bertholf, first Austrian ambassador to the United States in 1783.

380. GEDNEY, GEORGE WILLIAM, 4380.
New York City.

Lawyer. Born in Newburg, N. Y., May 17, 1868. Son of George W. Gedney and Mary E. Weygant, grandson of Cornelius Weygant and Mary Pinckney, great-grandson of John Weygant and Elizabeth Du Bois, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Wilhelmus Du Bois and Mary Hudson, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Lewis Du Bois and Rachel Jansen. Lewis Du Bois was born in New Paltz, September 14, 1728, and died in Marlborough in 1802. On September 20, 1775, he was commissioned Captain in the Fourth Ulster county, N. Y., regiment under Brig. Gen. Clinton, recruited for the Canadian service; promoted to Major; commissioned Colonel June 25, 1776, with instructions to raise a regiment for three years; was stationed in the Highlands in 1777 when Forts Clinton and Montgomery succumbed; was taken prisoner and exchanged about a year later; resigned December 22, 1779, and July 1, 1780, was appointed Colonel of levies raised to re-inforce the United States Army.

400.           GOURAUD, GEORGE FAUVEL,           4400.
New Haven, Conn.

Law student. Born in New York, June 25, 1872. Son of George Edward Gouraud and Florence W. Snow, grandson of George M. Snow and Frances M. Jackson, great-grandson of Nathan Jackson and Sophia Squires, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Giles Jackson and Anna Thomas and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of John Jackson. Giles Jackson was born in Weston, Mass., February 22, 1733. He was a representative in the General Court fourteen years, member of the State Congress which met at Watertown, and of the First Congress which met in 1774. On August 30, 1775, he was commissioned Major of the First Berkshire county, Mass., regiment; was again chosen to that office by the Legislature in 1776; served at Peekskill, N. Y.; was discharged August 6, 1776; again commissioned April 4, 1777, and on October 11, the same year, was appointed by the Legislature as Lieut.-Colonel, the same regiment, in place of Lieut. Col. Root, deceased. It is family tradition that Col. Jackson drew up the so-called "Convention of Saratoga" under which Burgoyne surrendered.

258.           GORDON, CHARLES GARNETT.           4258, Hyattsville, Md.

Captain, U. S. A. Born in Wake Co., N. C., September 28, 1837. 119. GRANGER, JOHN ALBERT. 4119.
New York City.

Lawyer. Born in Canandaigua, N. Y., July 13, 1833. Son of John Albert Granger and Harriet Jackson, grandson of Amasa Jackson and Mary Phelps, and great-grandson of Michael Jackson and Ruth Parker. Michael Jackson was born in Newton, Mass., December 28, 1734, and died April 10, 1801. He had four sons in the Revolutionary war. As a subaltern he had seen some service before the war. At Lexington he was Captain of a company of minutemen, and, as he said, had forty-two very fair shots at the enemy, many of which were deliberately fired as near as from 11 to 30 yards. For his coolness and daring he was made Major in Col. Gardner's regiment, Massachusetts militia; promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel; then Colonel of the Eighth Massachusetts regiment, and finally Brigadier-General. He was wounded at Lexington and Bunker Hill, and severely in a night attack on British entrenchments on an island in East River, New York.

Amasa was born in Newton, Mass., June 5, 1765, and died in New York March 24, 1824. Being only ten years of age he enlisted as a drummer boy, and at the close of the war was made an Ensign.

Michael Smyser of Pennsylvania went to the front as Captain of a company in Col. M. Swope's regiment; and was taken prisoner at Fort Washington, N. Y., November 16, 1776. In 1778 he was elected to the Legislature from York county, and from that time until 1790 he was seven times chosen to serve in that capacity. He did many generous and patriotic deeds, such as raising 250 pounds specie for the relief of Boston.

KNAPP, CHARLES R.

Interlachen, Fla.

Hotel proprietor. Born in Catskill, N. Y., February 10, 1863. Son of Charles R. Knapp and Mary E. Shepard, grandson of Edwin Gavin Knapp and Marietta Ferris, great-grandson of Joshua Knapp and Lodema Warner, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Joshua Knap and Abigail Bostwick. The name Knapp was formerly spelled with one "p," the second "p" having been added the latter part of the last century. Joshua Knap was born in Danbury, Conn., in 1716 and was enlisted for a short time in defense of the town. He was called "Deacon" to distinguish him from his eldest son. Three of his four sons served in the Revolution. His son Joshua was born May 6, 1762, lived in Danbury, New Milford, Conn., and Sherburn, N. Y., and died about 1836; enlisted November 15, 1781, as Ensign in First regiment, Connecticut Line; and retired with the army. He was a member of the Cincinnati.

271.

KOOP, GODFREY PHELPS.

4271.

New York City.

Born in New York, August 9, 1868. Son of Johannes Koop and Marie Elizabeth Jackson, grandson of Oliver Phelps

Jackson and Antonine Hugon des Demaines, great-grandson of Amasa Jackson and Mary Phelps; and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Michael Jackson and Ruth Parker. Michael Jackson was born in Newton, Mass., December 28, 1734, and died April 10, 1801. He had four sons in the Revolutionary war. As a subaltern he had seen some service before the war. At Lexington he was Captain of a company of minute men, and, as he said, had forty-two very fair shots at the enemy, many of which were deliberately fired as near as from 11 to 30 yards. For his coolness and daring he was made Major in Col. Gardner's regiment, Massachusetts militia: promoted to Lieutenant Colonel; then Colonel of the Eighth Massachusetts regiment, and finally Brigadier General. He was wounded at Lexington and Bunker Hill, and severely in a night attack on British entrenchments on an island in East River while he was stationed at New York. At West Point, on one occasion, Gen. Jackson was weighed with Gen. Washington and other officers. A memorandum made at the time shows that the Commander-in-Chief of the armies weighed 209 pounds, which was less than might be expected of a man of Washington's stature. Gen. Lincoln weighed 224 pounds; Gen. Knox, 280 pounds; Gen. Greaton, 166 pounds; Col. Huntington, 182 pounds, and Gen. Michael Jackson 252 pounds.

Amasa was born in Newton, Mass., June 5, 1765 and died in New York, March 24, 1824. Being only ten years of age he enlisted as a drummer boy and at the close of the war was made an Ensign.

33. LA BREE, BENJAMIN. 4033.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Publisher. Born in Philadelphia, February 11, 1855. Son of Benjamin La Bree and Annie Faunce, grandson of John La Bree and Catharine Tees, great-grandson of Benjamin La Bree and Mary Hewson, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of James La Bree. James La Bree, with his son Benjamin, aged about 12 years, left France for Canada in 1780; reached Boston in 1781; enlisted in Capt. Benjamin Lemonte's company, Col. Samuel Cobb's regiment and served from May 10, to December 1, 1781. Upon the expiration of his term of service he returned to France. Benjamin became a sailing master with Philadelphia for his home, and in 1799 married Mary Hewson, daughter of Captain John Hewson, a Revolutionary patriot who is said to have established the first cotton spinning and calico print works in the Colonies.

George Eacker, Jr., and Eliza Snell, and Andrew Finck and ————. Gerrit Jacob Lansing was a member of the Committee of Safety of Albany county during the Revolution. Abraham Jacob Ten Eyck was also a member of that Committee. John Stewart was born at sea September 6, 1742, and died in Voluntown, Conn., January 22, 1802. At the storming of Stony Point, July 16, 1779, Major Stewart, Gen. Wayne and Col. Fleury performed distinguished service for which they were awarded medals by Congress. William Fox was member of the Tryon county Committee of Safety, Captain of Tryon county militia, and fought at the battle of Oriskany. Judge Jacob Eacker was member of the Tryon county Committee of Safety, and Quartermaster of the Second battalion, Palatine division. [For Abraham Van Horne's services see Henry Van Horne, No. 217.] Jacob Ten Eyck's services are a part of the history of New Jersey. Jacob Lansing was Captain of the "Middle Foot" at Schoharie when attacked by Sir John Johnson and Brant, and Colonel of a regiment at the battle of Stillwater. Asa Douglas commanded a company of Silver Grays at the storming of Bennington. George Eacker, Jr., was member of the Tryon county Committee of Safety. Andrew Finck was member of the same and held various commissions, attaining the rank of Major.

In October, 1775, he was commissioned Captain of the Third company, Twenty-fourth regiment, Connecticut militia; Captain by commission from Continental Congress August 26, 1776; joined the Continental army with his company at Morristown, N. J., and engaged in the battle of Millstone, near Somerset Courthouse; participated in battles of Brandywine, Germantown, Bound Brook, and Mud Fort; in June, 1778, proceeded to Wyoming Valley to defend his home against the British and Indians; reached Forty-Foot on the morning of the massacre and reported to Col. Zebulon Butler; detailed to make a reconnoissance and was killed at the front.

LEE, WILLIAM HENRY.

New York City.

Merchant. Born in New Britain, Conn., May 19, 1818. Son of Thomas Lee and Electa Riley, grandson of Isaac Lee, 3d, and Abigail Goodrich, great-grandson of Col. Isaac Lee and Tabitha Norton, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Dr. Isaac Lee, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Stephen Lee and Elizabeth Royce, and great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of John Lee, who came to America from Colchester, England, in 1634, and Mary Hart. The name of this ancient English family was originally spelled "Lega." In the "Doomsday Book" "Lega" and "Lee" are frequently used to indicate the same family. The name signifies a meadow. Col. Isaac Lee was born in Farmington, Conn., January 17, 1716, and died December 13, 1802. He was Captain of the Thirteenth company of the train band in the Sixth regiment of the Colony in May, 1767; made Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fifteenth regiment, October, 1767, and was a member of the Colonial Assembly, with the exception of four years, from 1761 to 1775. In March, 1775, he was appointed Colonel. He was a member of the General Assembly from 1776 until 1791, except during 1779-1782, being a member of the Assembly meeting at Hartford when that body took the oath of allegiance under Gov. Trumbull to the new government of the United States in October, 1776, and was chief magistrate of his town until incapacitated by age. His wife was the heroine of Mrs. Willard's "Stealing the Bride."

88. LINCOLN, JAMES MINOR. 4088.
New York City.

With Clyde Steamship Company. Born in Lewisburg, Pa., September 1, 1854. Son of Preston Shepard Lincoln and Annie Eliza Moore, grandson of Minor Sprague Lincoln and Almira Shepard, and great-grandson of Rufus Lincoln and Lydia Sprague. The Lincolns were of English descent, coming to America and settling in Hingham, Mass., in 1636. Capt. Rufus Lincoln was born in Taunton, Mass., November 10, 1751, lived there and in Wareham, Mass., and died February 11, 1838. He joined the army at the outbreak of the war; was at Cambridge when Washington assumed command; was at the battle of Dorchester Heights; raised a company at Taunton; was in Saratoga campaign; thence went to Pennsylvania; was captured December 28, 1777, while scouting near Valley Forge; exchanged and rejoined the army; was stationed at Newburgh, N. Y., and was discharged near there November 3, 1783.

342. LOCKWOOD, HOMER NICHOLS. 4342.
New York City.

Retired. Born in Victory, N. Y., June 23, 1833. Son of Homer Lockwood and Sally Benedict, grandson of Isaac Lockwood, Jr., and Aner Nichols, great-grandson of Isaac Lockwood and Ruth Whitney, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Joseph Lockwood and Mary Wood, and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Ephraim Lockwood and Mercy St. John. Ephraim Lockwood was probably born in Watertown, Mass., where the ancestor from England settled in 1630. Isaac Lockwood, Jr., was born in Norwalk, Conn., December 22, 1761, and died in Brookfield, Conn., December 16, 1838. When he was about nine years of age, his mother, alarmed lest her sons be pressed into the service of British vessels which were scouring the coast for that purpose, took her youngest three sons up into the country and left them with farmers. Isaac was left with a tailor named Bunnel, in Brookfield, where he learned the tailor's trade. At the age of 16 he enlisted in the Continental army for seven months, and then re-enlisted for the war. On account of a lame knee, he served in the field only in emergencies, employing most of his time making officers' uniforms. His grandson, Eli Hayes, of Longmeadow, Mass., has the shears with which he made Washington's clothes, and H. N. Lockwood has his musket. He was mustered out at West Point, his honorable discharge being signed by Washington. His own son, Isaac, 3d, is living in Brookfield, Conn., in his 90th year.

Butler, Penn.

Lieutenant Colonel, U. S. A., retired. Born in Butler, Pa., May 18, 1830. Son of Hugh McKee and Margaret Dunbar, and grandson of Thomas McKee and Margaret Hogue. Thomas McKee (Magee) was born in county Down, Ireland, in 1749, migrated to this country in 1763 or 1767, and settled in Tuscarora Valley, Pa. He was one of nine brothers, all of whom were noted for their great stature and herculean strength. They were known as Scotch-Irishmen. Thomas was a private in Capt. Cluggage's company, raised in the Tuscarora Valley, belonging to the First Pennsylvania regiment of the Line. He died in Butler, Pa., in 1814.

74.                   McKEEVER, JAMES LAWRENCE.                   4074.
New York City.

Banker. Born in Baltimore, Md., October 4, 1831. Son of Isaac McKeever and Mary Flower Gamble, grandson of Joseph Gamble and Mary Thomson, and great-grandson of Thomas Thomson and Mary Jane Hale. Capt. Thomas Thomson was a native of Scotland and died in Philadelphia, Penn. He served with the Pennsylvania troops at the battle of Yorktown and was present at the surrender of Cornwallis. On his return to Philadelphia he was presented by his admirers with a sword which was in the possession of the family many years till destroyed by fire with valuable papers and contents

75.      McKEEVER, ROBERT TOWNSEND.      4075.
            New York City.

Also grandson of Robert C. Townsend and Mary A. Whittemore, great-grandson of Peter Townsend and Alice Cornell, great-grandson of Peter Townsend, Sr., and Anna Hawkshurst. Peter Townsend, Sr., cast, without compensation, at the Sterling Iron Works, which he owned, the ponderous iron chain stretched across the Hudson at West Point, a portion of which is yet preserved at that station. At these works were also cast a number of cannon and anchors placed on the "Constitution" and other ships of war. General Washington was a frequent visitor at Sterling cottage at this period of the war.

Also great-grandson of Samuel Whittemore and Jane Tileston, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Thomas Whittemore and Ann Cutler and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Samuel Whittemore and Esther Prentice. Capt. Samuel Whittemore died in Menotomy (now Arlington), Mass., February 2, 1793, aged 99 years. When the British marched on Lexington he led a company of militia, declaring that he could die in peace if he could only kill one of the enemies of his country. He killed two, and in turn had part of his face shot away; was bayoneted by enraged red-coats and left for dead. He was conscious enough to hear his assailants exclaim, "We have killed the old rebel," but four hours later he was found alive, cared for by his friends and lived nearly a quarter of a century more.

141.           MCLEAN, GEORGE HAMMOND.           4141.
New York City.

Insurance. Born in New York, November 24, 1849. Son of James Monroe McLean and Louisa Williams, grandson of Cornelius McLean and Hannah Hammond, and great-grandson of James Hammond. James Hammond was a native of Westchester county, N. Y., and was Lieutenant-Colonel of the First regiment of that county's militia.

370.           McMASTER, GEORGE HUNTER.           4370.
Fort Huachuca, A. T.

Lieutenant, U. S. A. Born in Columbia, S. C., May 30, 1869. Son of Fitz W. McMaster and Mary Jane Macfie, grandson of John McMaster and Rachel Buchanan, and great-grandson of Hugh McMaster and Margaret Killoch. Hugh McMaster was born in county Antrim, Ireland, in 1754, and settled with his two brothers, John and Patrick, in the famous Ninety-six District of South Carolina, where each was granted 100 acres of land in 1775. Notwithstanding the predominating British sympathy of this last interior Tory stronghold of South Carolina to yield to American arms, he enlisted with his brothers. John was killed at Augusta, and Patrick died a prisoner at Camden. Hugh survived the war and died on the Atlantic ocean in 1787. Rachel Buchanan, above mentioned, had two uncles—John Buchanan, who was a Captain in the Continental army, afterwards a member of the Cincinnati, and who died at Winsboro, S. C., 1826; and Lieut. Robert Buchanan, who was captured at the fall of Charleston, and died on a British prison ship in Charleston harbor.

124.           McNAIR, EBEN ORLANDO.           4124.
Warsaw, N. Y.

Banker. Born in Kalamazoo, Mich., January 1, 1850. Son of David A. McNair and Juliana Trumbull Willcox, grandson of Charles Willcox and Almira Rood, great-grandson of "Capt." John Willcox and Margaret Kelsey, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of William Willcoxson and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of John Willcoxson. William Willcoxson came from London and became a freeman in Massachusetts Bay in 1636. Most of his descendants dropped the termination "son" from their names. His son John, of Killingworth, Conn., was born in 1760; served as private in Capt. John Williams' company, under Lieut. Col. Gallup, stationed at Fort Griswold, 1779; was among the "short levies" who served in the Seventh Connecticut regiment in 1780 and enlisted in the Provisional regiment, (Capt. Prentice's company,) 1781, raised "to march on the shortest notice in case His Excellency Gen. Washington shall call for them." Some sixty persons named Willcox and Rood, all more or less connected, participated in the war.

323.           MERCER, WILLIAM ALLEN.           4323.
                    Ashland, Wis.

Lieutenant, U. S. A. Born in Buffalo, N. Y., March 19, 1855. Son of William Mercer and Eleanor Caroline Allen, grandson of Archibal Mercer and Harriet Wheat, great-grandson of Samuel Wheat and Sarah Deshon, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of John Deshon and Sarah Starr, and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Daniel Deshon and Ruth Christopher. The Deshons are of French Huguenot extraction. John was born December 25, 1727, in New London, Conn., and died in June, 1792. Under the title of Captain he served as agent in erecting fortifications at New London and as Commissary of various enlistments of troops. He was also member of the Naval Board of the Eastern Department. Two of his brothers were also conspicuous in the Revolution.

Also grandson of Lewis Allen and Mary Dennison Smith, great-grandson of Dennison Smith and Waity Burrows, and great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Olliver Smith and Mary Dennison. Olliver

Smith was born at Poquonnoc, Conn., April 27, 1739, being a descendant of Nehemiah Smith who came to America from England about 1639 and settled near New London, Conn. TABLET TO THE MEMORY OF
JOHN MORTON,
AT CHESTER, DELAWARE COUNTY, PENN.

Moore and — Owens. Pliny Moore was born in Sheffield, Mass., April 14, 1759, and after the war, lived at Champlain, N. Y. He joined the expedition to Canada under Armstrong in 1775, being obliged on account of his youth, to enlist as a musician. Later he was made Lieutenant of Capt. Wright's company in Col. Marinus Willett's regiment and became Adjutant of the regiment.

Also grandson of Benjamin Mooers and Hannah Platt, great-grandson of Benjamin Mooers and Abigail Hazen, great-grandson of Jonathan Mooers and Mary Poor, great-grandson of Jonathan Mooers and Constance Langhorn, great-grandson of Edmund Mooers and Anna his wife, who came from England in 1638 and landed at Boston. Benjamin Mooers was born in Haverhill, Mass., April 1, 1758, and after the war lived in Plattsburgh, N. Y. He enlisted in 1776 in Capt. Eaton's Haverhill company, Col. Edward Higgleworth's regiment; joined Gates' army; re-enlisted in 1777 in Capt. (Gen.) Brickett's company; was on guard over prisoners taken with Burgoyne; in 1778, appointed Ensign in Col. Hazen's regiment "Congress' Own;" in 1779, promoted to Adjutant of the regiment, which position he held until the close of the war; crossed the ice to Staten Island with Sterling in 1779; was member of Washington's Life Guard 1779-80; and was present at André's execution. After the war he held many positions of public trust and honor. He served in the militia 30 years, being commissioned Major General in 1811.

Also great-grandson of Nathaniel Platt and Phœbe Smith, great-grandson of Zephaniah Platt and Hannah Saxton, great-grandson of Jonas Platt, great-grandson of Epinetus Platt and Phœbe Wood, great-grandson of Richard Platt and Mary, his wife, and great-grandson of Joseph Platt. Nathaniel Platt of Suffolk county, N. Y., was commissioned in 1776, Captain of a company in Col. Josiah Smith's regiment of minute-men, Second battalion of Suffolk county, and was attached to Gen. Woodhull's brigade in the battle of Long Island. He was later attached to the commissary department and rendered efficient service in gathering supplies for Washington's army along the Hudson. Col. Zephaniah Platt of the Associated Exempts was taken prisoner by the British and died on one of their prison ships at the age of 74.

354.* PUMPELLY, JOSIAH COLLINS, 4354.
New York City.

Literateur. Born in Owego, N. Y., August 16, 1839. Son of George James Pumpelly and Susan Isabella * State No. 2 in the New Jersey Society.

Pumpelly (his cousin), grandson of Hon. James Pumpelly and Mary Pixley, great-grandson of John Pumpelly and Hannah Bushnell, and great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Jean Pompilie. The name Pumpelly, formerly spelled Pompilly, Pompilie and in various other ways, is believed to date back to the Roman family of Pompilius. The Pumpelly family came originally from Spoleto, Italy, and from there went to Avignon, France. Jean Pompilie, a French Huguenot, was the emigrant to America. John Pumpelly (or Pompilly), of Pembroke, Mass., afterwards of Salisbury, Conn., and Danby, N. Y., served in the French and Indian war and stood beside Wolfe when he fell. He belonged at one time to "Rogers Rangers," and was made a Sergeant for distinguished bravery. It is said that he was once instrumental in saving the life of General Putnam, under whom he served as Commissary at the time of Burgoyne's surrender.

Also great-grandson of David Pixley and Lydia Patterson. David Pixley was born at Stockbridge, Mass., March 27, 1741, and died in Owego, N. Y., August 25, 1807. His tombstone bears the inscription: "He was an officer of the Revolution at the siege of Quebec in 1775, under Gen. Montgomery." His Commission as Lieutenant of Foot is herewith reproduced in facsimile. At the close of the war he bore the title of Colonel. He was one of the first settlers of Owego in 1790, "and continued its father and friend until his death."

Susan Isabella Pumpelly, mentioned above, was daughter of Charles Pumpelly, (brother of James Pumpelly) and Frances Avery, daughter of Samuel Avery. The latter was a descendant of James Avery, a descendant of Egbert the First, King of England, and a famous Indian fighter whose four sons all held Captain's commissions. James was progenitor of the patriotic Avery family of Connecticut, nine of whom were killed at the Fort Griswold massacre [see p. 201], September 8, 1781, three wounded and four taken prisoners to New York.

THE CONGRESS OF THE COLONY OF THE

Kingston, N. Y.

Lawyer. Born at Rondout, Ulster county, N. Y. Son of Hiram Roosa and Lamira E. DeWitt, grandson of Jacob Rutsen DeWitt and Rachael Hardenburgh, great-grandson of Capt. Jacob Rutsen DeWitt and Jenneke Depuy, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Egbert DeWitt and Mary Nottingham, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Andries DeWitt and Jannetje Egbertson, great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Tjerck Claessen DeWitt van Grootholdt en Zunderlandt and Barbara Andriessen van Amsterdam. Captain Jacob Rutsen DeWitt was born at Napanoch, Ulster county, N. Y.; was baptised at Kingston, N. Y., April 13, 1729; and lived in Sullivan (now town of Deerpark, Orange county). He was commissioned Captain of a company of Rangers for guarding the frontier of Ulster and Sullivan counties, and was Captain in Col. Clinton's and Col. Klock's regiments New York militia. He gave his large stone house on the Navesink river, subsequently called "Fort DeWitt," as a refuge for women and children, whose husbands and fathers were in the armies.

70.

ROOSEVELT, ROBERT BARNWELL.

4070.

New York City.

Banker. Born in New York, August 7, 1829. Son of Cornelius W. Roosevelt and Margaret Barnhill, grandson of Jacobus (known as James) I. Roosevelt and Mary Van Schaick, great-grandson of Jacobus Roosevelt and Annatje Bogart, great<sup>2</sup>-grandson of Johannes Roosevelt and Hyltie Syverts, great<sup>3</sup>-grandson of Nicholas Roosevelt and Hillotje Jans, and great<sup>4</sup>-grandson of Martinsen Van Roosevelt and Jannetje Thomas. Martinsen Van Roosevelt was the first representative of the old Holland family of that name to settle in this country, having taken up his residence in New York in August, 1649. With true Dutch economy of time and space, the "Van" was dropped from the name in the next generation.

Jacobus, known as James I. Roosevelt, was born in New York City, October 25, 1759, and died August 13, 1840. He was Commissary during the entire war, giving his services without reward. "Getting supplies" for the Continental army had been about as hard a task as leading it to victory, and so impressed was the phrase on his mind that to the day of his death, when going to market—and it was the practice in those days for every burgher to do his marketing personally, accompanied by a colored boy, usually a slave, with a basket on his arm to carry home the purchases—Mr. Roosevelt always said he was "going for supplies."

63. ROOSEVELT, WILLIAM EMLÉN. 4063.

46.

SALOMON, WILLIAM JONES.

4046.

New York City.

Banker. Born in Mobile, Ala., October 9, 1852. Son of David Salomon and Rosalie Alice Levy, grandson of Haym M. Salomon and Ella Hart, and great-grandson of Haym Salomon and Rachel Frank. Haym Salomon was born in Lissa, Poland, about 1740, and lived in New York and Philadelphia. When the British took New York he was imprisoned in the "Prevost," which stood on the site now occupied by the Hall of Records, City Hall Park. He escaped to Philadelphia, and was entrusted with the negotiation of the war subsidies of France and Holland on his personal integrity. When, by the withdrawal of Continental money, great distress prevailed in Philadelphia, he distributed $2,000 in specie among the poor. He was the intimate friend of Madison, Randolph, and other members of the government, and frequently lent them the financial aid which was so difficult to obtain in those days. The magnitude of his advances to the government, without security, may be gathered from the fact that, in 1864, the Committee on Revolutionary Claims of the United States Senate reported a bill appropriating $353,726, if his heirs would abandon further claims. The Committee's report of 1850 declared that "in the depth and sincerity of his devotion to the cause of human liberty, he was not surpassed by either of his countrymen, Kosciusko or Pulaski," and that he was "one of the truest and most efficient friends of the country in a very critical period of its history."

John Williams was born in Roxbury, Mass., December 25, 1719, and died February 8, 1794. He was a tanner by trade, and an ardent revolutionary Whig. At his house his son Thomas (born in Roxbury, January 14, 1754; died in Utica, N. Y., July 31, 1817) and other members of the Boston "Tea Party" assembled to complete their disguises. Thomas was a private in Capt. Moses Whiting's company (said to be the first one formed for the war of the Revolution). As such he was engaged in one active skirmish, and after Lexington assisted in driving the British into Boston. Thomas inherited his father's patriotism in a large degree and gave evidences of it before he was enlisted. Before he fired lead, he and his youthful companions used to hide behind hedges and shoot green currants from an old gun barrel at the silk-stockinged legs of British officers, who, though stung, were too proud to chase a pack a boys.

326. WILLIAMS, WILLIAM DICKSON, JR. 4326.

*The Society is indebted to Mr. Paul L. Ford, of Brooklyn, N. Y., for the privilege of reproducing this interesting portrait of Washington. The original miniature was painted in 1795, and given by Washington to Mrs. Custis. The late Gordon L. Ford had it copied in colors, since which, the original has entirely disappeared.
